Spaceship's Landing Delayed by a Storm

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Flight controllers today delayed Thursday's Apollo 9 landing by one orbit—90 minutes—to escape storm-lashed seas southwest of Bermuda.

By circling the globe an extra time, the astronauts will land 480 miles south of the main splashdown area, near Grand Turk Island in the Bahamas, where weather conditions are expected to be excellent.

The new splashdown time is 11:56 a.m. EST.

Before making the decision, flight director Eugene Kranz weighed such things as how fast the recovery ship, the carrier Guadalcanal, could reach the new touchdown point, tracking facilities for the new re-entry track, and where Apollo 9 would land if its retro-rocket failed to fire and if it had to make emergency use of jet controls to come home an orbit or two later.

Astronauts James A. McDivitt, David R. Scott and Russell L. Schweickart favored the alternate landing plan.

When astronaut Stuart Roosa, the capsule communicator, reported the forecast for the Bermuda area was "grim"—10 miles visibility, 23 knot winds, waves six to eight feet and swells 10 to 12 feet, McDivitt commented: "Visibility's good."

Hearing that the prediction for the Grand Turk area for Thursday was 10 miles visibility, winds light and variable, waves two to three feet and swells six to seven feet, the Apollo 9 commander exclaimed: "Hey, let's go there! Let's go there!"

Later, with the Guadalcanal reporting 14 foot swells and 2,000 foot visibility, McDivitt said: "I don't think anybody up here is good enough sailor for that."

"Roger, we agree down here too," Roosa said.

McDivitt inquired whether the Guadalcanal could reach the backup landing zone and was told that it was only 16 hours away and could easily make it.

"We need that cake," joked Scott, referring to a 350-pound cake that the Guadalcanal has waiting for Apollo 9's return.

The Guadalcanal, which has been riding out the storm for several days, steamed Monday to a central position, ready to move swiftly to whatever recovery zone was selected.

McDivitt expressed concern Monday when he spotted whitecaps in the recovery area from more than 100 miles in space.

There was no further word on the weather outlook as Mission Control awoke the astronauts for what was due to be the last full day of their 10-day mission.

Apollo 9 at that point was headed for its first daylight pass over Australia and, although sunset was near, the crew's initial chore was to try for some pictures.

Otherwise, the flight of Apollo 9 proceeded flawlessly into its ninth day, with the astronauts again ticketed for a leisu rely sp ell of picture-taking, navigation sightings and preparations for their return to earth.

No School Levy Hike Is Proposed By Board

The Sedalia Board of Education unanimously voted Tuesday night to present voters with a proposed tax levy of $2.82 in the April 1 election, despite notice from the state that failure to set a school tax levy of $3.24 per $100 assessed valuation will lead to the loss of state funds to the district.

The $2.82 levy (actually voters will be presented a $1.37 levy, with the balance devoted to retirement of bonds.) is the same as last year.

The school board was notified by the state Feb. 11, that the property assessment ratio in the district had declined from 32.6 percent to 25.5 percent over the last year. The ratio is the relation of assessed valuations to actual selling prices. Since the district was, according to the state, under-assessing, the local share of school support would have to be made up with a higher levy.

The assessment ratio figures were obtained from a study by the State Tax Commission, and involved several counties in Missouri.

If state funds are cut, under present funding the district would lose $62,000, and as much as $106,000 a year if pending legislation on the subject passes. Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, said Wednesday that little effect of the cutback, if it comes, would be felt this year, since surplus funds are available to make up the difference. He said the loss of such funds would have a marked effect in future years, however, leaving the board with two alternatives — either cut services or pass a higher levy.

Norris said an amendment to Senate Bill No. 1, now before the Legislature, would permit districts to set levies based on the previous year's assessment ratio, or an average of the last three years. If this measure passes, the district wouldn't lose funds, he said.

If a higher levy were submitted and turned down, the levy would revert to $1.25 per $100 assessed valuation, plus bonded indebtedness requirements, according to state law.

In other business, the board agreed to spend $300 to promote the school levy election, approved the appointment of Mrs. Jean Routszong as sponsor of the Senior Student Council at Smith-Cotton, and accepted bids totaling $6,077.47 from several companies for assorted office machines, visual aid equipment and other items.

Dr. Norris reported that plans and specifications for air-conditioning the Smith-Cotton cafeteria have not been completed by Pierre Bretton, Kansas City, a consulting mechanical engineer. He said Bretton told him bids would possibly be let sometime this week, however.

Balance of funds as of March 1, was reported to be $1,289,070.67 by Dr. Norris,

Hopes for Senate Vote On Treaty Ratification

WASHINGTON (AP) — Democratic Leader Mike Mansfield of Montana said today he hopes to get a Senate vote this week on ratification of a treaty designed to prevent the spread of nuclear weapons.

Mansfield told an informal news conference that a final vote could come either Thursday or Friday. He got permission to call the Senate into session two hours earlier than usual Thursday.

The Montana senator counted the chances for ratification "fairly good." It requires approval by two-thirds of those voting to ratify a treaty.

Senate backers previously had shown their strength by warding off an attempt to attach a reservation to the treaty.

In a 61-30 vote Tuesday, the Senate rejected a proposal by Democrat Sam Ervin of North Carolina to add a reservation to the treaty declaring the United States was not obligated to defend nonnuclear nations from atomic attack.

Ervin said that without his reservation this country might find itself confronted with demands to respond to a nuclear attack.

But Chairman J. W. Fulbright of the Senate Foreign Relations Committee, floor manager for the treaty, insisted no such commitments were involved and the Ervin reservation was not needed.

Sen. Thomas J. Dodd, D-Conn., criticized the treaty on several points. He proposed that U.S. approval be conditioned on an understanding that the agreement be void if a treaty nation—particularly, he said, The Soviet Union—attacked any other country.

Dodd said the treaty "represents a major victory of Soviet diplomacy" by denying nuclear weapons to West European nations that do not now have them and are members of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization.

Will Select Miss Sedalia On May 3

The Sedalia Jaycees will sponsor the traditional Miss Sedalia Scholarship Pageant in Sedalia May 3, according to Jaycee President Barry Williams.

This is the sixth year the Jaycees have sponsored this event. The winner of the Sedalia pageant will enter the state contest to determine who will be Miss Missouri, the winner of which will enter the national competition in Atlantic City, N. J. in September, for the Miss America title.

Sedalia's contest will be held in the Smith-Cotton High School auditorium beginning at 8 p.m. on May 3. Planning committees for the program are now being formed and numerous organizations are being asked to sponsor contestants.

"This will be a community endeavor, and we in the Sedalia Jaycees are sure all in the community will participate to insure its success," Williams commented.

Egyptians Get Blame For Battle

TEL AVIV (AP) — Light-arms fire broke out along the Suez Canal today and Israeli and Jordanian forces traded fire in the Jordan Valley.

The Israeli army in Tel Aviv said the Egyptians started the new round of hostilities along the canal with sniper fire. Israeli troops fired back, the army said.

Israell soldiers fired in the air to quell a schoolboys' riot in the occupied Gaza Strip. Officials said 500 schoolboys charged an Israeli halftrack, throwing stones and chanting curses and Palestine slogans.

Israelis waited tensely to see whether the canal hostilities would escalate.

An Israeli senior staff officer told correspondents he believed the Egyptians were not ready to call a halt to the cross-canal duels.

United Nations observers stationed along the 103-mile-long waterway have blamed the Egyptians for starting the shooting on all occasions.

The staff officer said Israel in the last four days suffered 5 soldiers killed, 25 wounded, one Piper Cub plane shot down, two vehicles destroyed and a few others damaged.

For their part, the Israelis said they inflicted heavy punishment on the Egyptians, perhaps killing from 30 to 50 soldiers in addition to Lt. Gen. Abdel Moneim Riad, the chief of staff, and damaging port installations, ships and oil installations at Suez City.

Asked if the Israelis had prior knowledge of Riad's movements, the officer replied: "No, we were just lucky."

He said he did not think the Russians had taken an active part in the fighting, but they had not played a moderating role either.

The officer said Israel believed Cairo wanted to escalate the fighting in order to pressure the great powers into settling the problem—preferably in Egypt's favor.

Board Hears Complaints On Litter and Hubbard

A delegation of concerned citizens and a committee representing the Pettis County branch of the NAACP addressed the Sedalia School Board prior to its regular session in the Board of Education office at Smith-Cotton, Tuesday night.

The problem of littering the streets and yards around Smith-Cotton was brought up. Some 30 persons attended the school board meeting, and several of them addressed the board in an effort to seek out a solution to the problems.

Littering and trespassing were the two major complaints expressed by various individuals who live adjacent to the school. Another was the problem of groups of students going across the street from the high school to smoke, which is forbitten by law on the school grounds.

One person complained of students drinking alcoholic beverages near or on his property and throwing the empty receptacles in his yard and garage. Another complained that students were continually breaking bottles on her sidewalk and porch, while still another complained of students sitting on her steps or standing on her porch while smoking.

Some blamed the problem of students cutting across yards and milling about just across the street from the school on the closing of Massachusetts between Broadway and Ninth. This was done to curb the traffic problem around the school during the lunch hours.

In relation to the litter problem, Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, pointed out in prepared remarks some of the problems involved in a "closed" lunch hour, or one in which students are not permitted to leave the building.

Norris said the seating capacity in the Smith-Cotton cafeteria is only 480 students, which, with less than half the students eating there now, necessitates two shifts, with the lunch period running from 11:45 a.m. to 1:15 p.m. He said a closed lunch period would require four shifts to feed the entire 1,993 students at Smith-Cotton in the cafeteria.

The board made no decision on the question.

A group composed of several citizens present at the board meeting and some members of the school board made plans to

Enter Board Race

Judging from the number of candidates who have filed for the school board, interest is running high in the affairs of Sedalia School District 200.

Dr. C. W. Monsees, South Limit, secretary of the board and a candidate for re-election himself, announced Tuesday night at the board meeting that six other candidates have filed.

They are:

Jerry Iuchs, 1807 East 14th; Mrs. Claude Lambirth, 1000 North Grand; Glen M. (Mack) Kell, Jr., 812 North New York; Ray Hendricks, 1614 West 20th; James E. Steele, 1110 West Fourth, and A. M. Hopkins, 1009 West 10th.

Dr. T. J. Norris, superintendent of schools, said this was the highest number of candidates he had seen run for the board in his 11 years in Sedalia.

The deadline for filing, the board announced, will be 5 p.m. Friday at the board office in Smith-Cotton High School.

Besides Dr. Monsees, the term of Bob Gardner expires this year. Gardner has announced he will not run for re-election.

Expect New Wage Talks Following French Strike

PARIS (AP) — Both President Charles de Gaulle's goverment and French labor unions were ready today for new wage negotiations after a general strike that crippled the country for 24 hours.

Gold prices, which rose last week in part because of a threat to the stability of the franc, declined in various European trading centers. There were reports South Africa may have sold some of its gold reserves on the free market or that arrangements are being made for such sales.

Information Minister Joel le Theule told newsmen after a Cabinet meeting the government is eager for talks with business and labor. At the same time, he insisted on the government's position: no more than a 4 per cent wage increase.

The unions want 10 to 12 per cent.

Maurice Schumann, minister for social affairs, said the strike had hit nationalized industry much more heavily than private industry.

The country was pretty well back at work today.

Millions of workers were off the job Tuesday and there was a massive march in Paris by a throng estimated to total from 60,000 to 100,000. For many it was a day of cold water shaves and hitchhiking to work.

De Gaulle in a broadcast Tuesday night stood firm, warning that France is just starting to recover from the crippling effects of last spring's student-labor turmoil. He said strikers would not be allowed to threaten the franc with devaluation and throw the country into chaos again.

The 78-year-old French leader accused the labor bosses of unleashing "a new offensive ... threatening to bring down the currency the economy and the republic.

"Do I need to declare they will be firmly defended?" he asked.

The wage negotiations deadlocked when the government insisted anything beyond a 4 per cent wage increase would result in inflation and might force devaluation of the franc.

French unions call strikes for only limited periods, usually 24 hours, because they do not have the funds to pay their members strike pay as American unions do.

Sentinel Talks Set

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon will discuss the antiballistic missile controversy with Republican and Democratic leaders of Congress Friday, then hold a television-radio news conference the same day.

The White House, announcing this today, would not say flatly that Nixon would be ready by Friday to disclose his decision on whether to deploy the hotly debated Sentinel antiballistic missile shield.

All that press secretary Ronald L. Ziegler would say was that Nixon still expects to announce a decision this week.

Obviously, the ABM controversu will figure prominently in the news conference, to be held at noon EST Friday in the East Room of the White House. And it was generally assumed Nixon would be prepared to announce his stand at that time.

The chief executive originally had planned to meet today with the National Security Council but this session was postponed to Saturday.

Ziegler said Nixon put off the meeting so Secretary of Defense Melvin R. Laird, who returns late tonight from South Vietnam, could prepare a report on his inspection tour of the war zone for the council.

Ziegler said Vietnam would be "one of the key topics of interest" at the NSC meeting.

The president spent much of this morning discussing the same subject with security adviser Henry A. Kissinger and other staff aides.

The President will meet with Laird Thursday.

Pause in Red Rocket Attacks

SAIGON (AP) — The Viet Cong's rocket and mortar attacks dropped off sharply today, but American officers said it might be only a pause in the enemy's 18-day-old spring offensive.

U.S. sources pointed out that the Communist command still has thousands of troops it has not committed to the offensive yet. They said a new wave of attacks could come any day and that the rest of this week is a critical period.

Allied spokesmen reported 20 rocket and mortar attacks on allied bases and towns during the night, compared to about 60 the night before. U.S. headquarters said casualties were light.

Five more ground fights Tuesday were reported, resulting in the deaths of 126 Viet Cong and North Vietnamese and 10 Americans.

U.S. headquarters reported 76 men of the enemy were killed in an abortive ambush of a 50-truck convoy 43 miles northwest of Saigon. Spokesmen said the only American casualties were eight men wounded, and one truck loaded with beer was slightly damaged.

The North Vietnamese battalion, about 400 troops, apparently tried to spring the trap too soon or too late.

"We were laying for them," said a spokesman for the U.S. 25th Infantry Division. "We knew they've been wanting to ambush one of our convoys."

The 25th Division had about 150 infantrymen and a column of armored personnel carriers equipped with .50-caliber machine guns and flame throwers reconnoitering the highway between the division headquarters at Cu Chi and a supply base at Dau Tieng.

The supply trucks, carrying ammunition and general cargo, were within three miles of Dau Tieng when the forward reconnaissance troops ran into the rear guard of the enemy lying in wait.

"They started a fire fight" said the 25th Divsion spokesman, "and the enemy's main ambush force got excited."

The American convoy was in three sections. One section already had passed the ambush site.

"The third section of the convoy just barrelled on through," the spokesman said, while the armored personnel carriers turned their guns on the enemy positions.

"We hosed them down," said the spokesman, "bout 75 enemy broke and ran and we caught them with artillery."

American helicopter gunships and dive-bombers also raked the North Vietnamese positions on both sides of the road.

North Vietnamese troops in the Central Highlands made two attacks on U.S. infantrymen from the 4th Division patrolling between the Cambodian border and Kontum City. One of the fights was 17 miles west-northwest of Kontum, the other 27 miles west of the city, an area of steadily increasing activity in the past week.

North and South Clashed in Early Days of Syracuse

Syracuse Hotel

Pictured above is the Syracuse Hotel which was owned and operated by Mr. and Mrs. H.N. Parsons.

By Hazel Lang

As early as 1840 the Franklin and Parker Stage Coach Line operated between Boonville and Springfield, stopping at Gilroy, which was located one and a half miles north of the present Syracuse.

At Gilroy a store was owned by William and Henry Porth and there was a post office. The stage line; which at that time went to Florence, Cole Camp, Warsaw and Springfield, operated for many years through northern Morgan County.

The freight rate from Boonville to Warsaw was one dollar per hundred. The route made it necessary to ford Richland Creek and other small streams. The Osage River was crossed by ferry boat.

On March 3, 1857, Congress provided for an overland mail service and Postmaster General Aaron V. Brown awarded the contract to the Overland Mail Company headed by John Butterfield. The mail was carried by rail semi-weekly from St. Louis to California and by stage to Sryacuse. On Aug. 9 1859 Butterfield purchased six lots in Syracuse to build his stables, blacksmith shop and shelter for his horses coaches and feed. Four days later Franklin and Parker bought half interest in two of the lots from Butterfield and operated through Syracuse with daily coaches between Syracuse and Springfield.

In those pioneer days sometimes entire communities came by wagon train from Kentucky and other eastern states with the admission of Missouri into the Union. Many of the families settled in the Syracuse area at that time, although the town did not come into being until 1858, almost 60 years later.

Among the first settlers were the Parsons and Burfords, J.H. Sand, John Jamison, James McCutcheon, Robert McCutchen, David Cowe, Johnny Carpenter, T.J. Shanklin, James and Culley Bridges, Jonathan Huff, George Shackelford, E.S. Ralston, John Finely, W.E. Tomson, John McCoy, John R. Speed, Charley Keek, Simon McCoy, John Chilcoate, Edward Ralston and Dr. Milton McCoy.

As the railroad progressed westward towns were built hastily along the route with great numbers of construction workers moving in. Most of them were Irish and German immigrants. Laborers took their families wherever they worked. Tent cities and wooden huts sprang up along the right of way.

Part of the land which is now Syracuse, was owned by Robert McCutcheon, purchased in 1832; William Hix, in 1833, later sold to John Finely; Edward S. Ralston, 1834; James McCutchen, 1835. These land owners realized the value of the land as the railroad came nearer, and surveyed and blocked off lots.

Syracuse, first called Pacific City, was a boom town, for with the construction crews came business firms, houses, riffraff, gamblers, moochers and drunks. This now was the western terminal of the railroad; merchandise shipped from St. Louis and points east was picked up by wagons and delivered to places west and south. Dozens of covered wagons, used for hauling, were everywhere and tons of freight was stored in the freight room of the old station.

There were four hotels north of the track and at the east end of the business street was the Seymour House, and at the west end of the town the Melvin Hotel and the Travelers' Home.

The first store in Syracuse was owned by William and Henry Porth who moved there from Gilroy in 1858.

With the start of the Civil War, trouble began in this area, with bushwackers making an attack in November, 1863. They raided stores, burned buildings including the Braden Hotel, and set fire to the Missouri Pacific Depot.

Robert Livingston Barry was the agent at the time and when the depot was starting to blaze he thought he saw a chance to get away under cover of smoke. As he ran through the smoke he was stopped by a bushwacker standing guard. He called for Barry to stop, but when Barry told him "They said it was all right for me to go," he was allowed to go on. Barry walked on down the track and into the woods to hide until after dark.

That same day the bushwackers shot 20 men in the streets, one named Groves, was a soldier in the Union Army home on leave. Living six miles northwest, he had come to town to get groceries for his family. After they shot him they dragged him to the depot and were going to throw him in the fire but the heat was too intense, so they let him lay some distance away.

Certainly the women of that day were brave and not afraid to get involved. When the bushwackers took men to the north side of town to be shot Mrs. Delia Logan, wife of a railroad contractor, realized what was about to take place. In the group was a neighbor, Hezekiah Hardey. She went to the scene, told the bushwackers that her neighbor, only a short time before, had taken charge of the funeral services for Captain Todd's father. The leader in charge released Hardey.

But this was not the only time Mrs. Logan attempted to save lives. Four or five citizens were shot for sympathizing with the Southern cause and when one evening four men who had Confederate leanings were surprised at the home of a friend by a band of Union loyalists and condemned to death at mock trial Mrs. Logan begged the mob to spare them. They wouldn't listen to her and shot them all.

Another alleged murder by the bushwackers was that of Fredrick Kanebly, a farmer who with his son, Henry, 12, was working in a field near Richland Creek six miles south of Syracuse on Sept. 25, 1863. When they unhitched their horses Kanebly sent Henry to the creek to water them. Henry heard a shot, and about that time two bushwackers appeared and asked him if he saw the deer they had shot. Henry did not trust them and when he returned to where his father was he found him dead from gunshot wounds. The boy went home to tell his mother what had happened. She sent him to a neighbor's for help. The death of her husband left her with three boys, Henry, 12; Herman, five, August, two, and one small daughter.

In October of the same year Geneal Joseph Shelby of the Confederate Army made a raid in Cooper County. It was on the ninth day of that month that he passed through Otterville and burned the Pacific Railroad bridge across the Lamine River between Syracuse and Otterville.

When the war ended the railroad station was rebuilt and remained for 80 years, not replaced until 1947.

Syracuse was incorporated May 6, 1868, by vote of two-thirds of its inhabitants with E.D. Bailey, H. Woodfin, J.M. Baldwin, T.J. Shanklin and H. Hardey, the first officers.

One of the best peace officers in those rough days, when liquor was cheap and plentiful and gambling common, was a sturdy Pennsylvania Dutchman named John N. Shenkel. The men with their whiskers, boots and six shooters who were in brawls didn't scare him at all. He gave them hospitality in the iron barred calaboose where they would cool off, but he did go to his grave in 1913 with two lead bullets, one in each shoulder, from those early days of trying to keep order. A shoemaker by trade, he operated his business in Syracuse for many years. His assistant was George Bimm, a colored man. He sold his business to R.B. Hardey.

The business houses stood on the south side of Front Street as they do now, but the sidewalks and steps were wooden instead of concrete. The downcutting of U.S. Highway 50 has left them higher above the street. The first building on the east was the two-story Old Seymore House, a hotel and bar owned by Tom Griffin. In 1897 the J.B. Stevens family had a hotel there. The bar later became a barber shop with E. Phillips as the barber. The next building was the H.M. Keevil general merchandise store with a like business in the next building operated by L.M. Cordry, who sold to Levard and Hyde Thomas in 1897.

Next was a brick building where a restaurant and grocery was run by Will Carpenter and where hard cider was sold. These buildings were destroyed by fire in 1899. A destructive fire also swept through the business district in 1881.

On the north side of Front Street was the J.H. Bonnell general store Bonnell went to Syracuse in 1862. West of the Bonnell store was the building used by J.N. Shenkel, Justice of the Peace and notary public for many years.

N.F. Carpenter and John T. Hirst were principal livestock shippers in the community. Hogs brought from $4 to $4.50 per Cwt on the St. Louis market.

North-South Clash in Early Syracuse

Henry Wilson, a Civil War veteran who lost his leg in service. He rode horseback carrying the bag of mail to Florence, them on to Pyrmont, returning over the same route bringing mail from those places to Syracuse to dispatch on the railroad.

Other early store owners were W.E. Thompson and Sons, Charles Printer and Dave Decker. Among other businesses was the gristmill and a sawmill built on the land purchased on April 2, 1836, by Alfred and W.C. McCutchen, powered by a water wheel. The dam was built on Big Richland about a quarter of a mile above where it joins the Little Richland.

Some of the timbers submerged in the water and buried in the ground still remain. Another sawmill and gristmill was built by John and Simpson McCoy who came from Virginia in the early 1840's.

The Community Church was built in 1857 and served several denominations. It was a large rectangular building with a center petition dividing the men and women as was the custom of that period. A Presbyterian church was built in 1859 and during the Civil War served as barracks for Federal soldiers. It was used, too, sometimes as a hospital for convalescing soldiers. The building was battered almost beyond repair and the government paid the congregation $3,000 damages. Later the church was struck by lightning and destroyed by fire.

The first wagon bridge across the Lamine River west of Syracuse, on highway 50, was framed in Syracuse and hauled to the Lamine River. That bridge was burned by the Confederate Army, under General Joseph Shelby on Oct. 9, 1863. The second was destroyed by high water in 1905 and was replaced that year. It stood until 1930 when the present bridge was built.

Near the bridge was a pump station operated about 1910 by Edgar Barnett of Tipton. It pumped water for the black smoke belchers for nearly 100 years until the road put on the diesel engines.

There was no more important tradesman than the blacksmith in these early communities. Among the first were P.J. Siegel, Charles Fischer and John Hahn in Syracuse. Harrison Fowler is the blacksmith now and has been for 50 years. Both of Fowler's grandfathers were blacksmiths. Amcie Fowler who came to the community from Pennsylvania in 1855, was also a farmer and carpenter. The other grandfather was Ern Hodges who was a blacksmith in North Carolina before the Civil War.

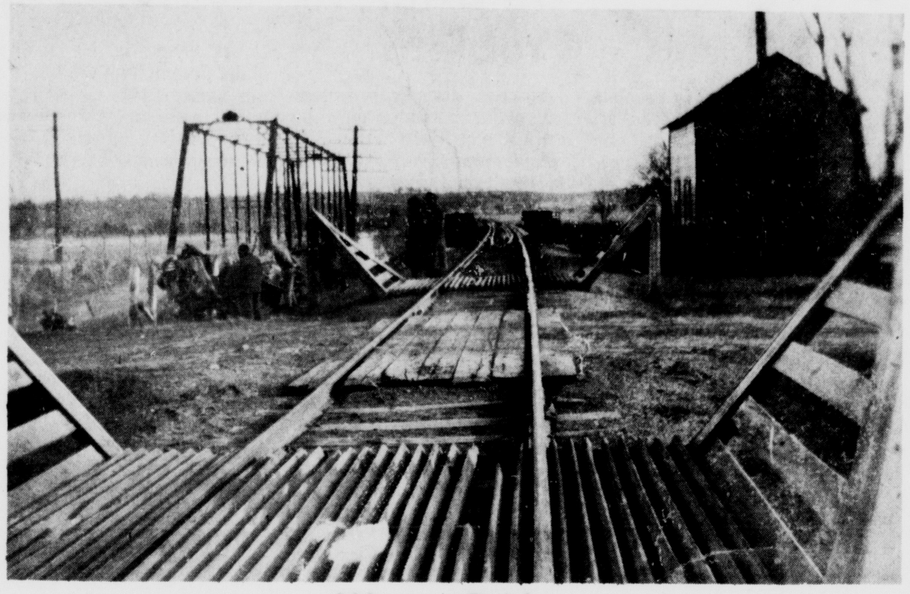

Walter Eichholz has lived in the Syracuse all his life. His grandfather, Furdinand Eichholz come to the area in 1848 where he engaged in farming.

At the turn of the century new business and new residents came to Syracuse and by 1905 it was one of the best trading posts in the country. The increase in business made it necessary to have a better water supply so in December of 1918 Walter Eichholz began drilling for water south off the railroad station. Within the year he struck a vein of water and drilled a well to a depth of 148 feet. This well served the town until the present water system was installed.

Today Mr. Eichholz's hobby is collecting and writing the history of early Morgan County and he has a very excellent file compiled on important events of the area as well as other history.

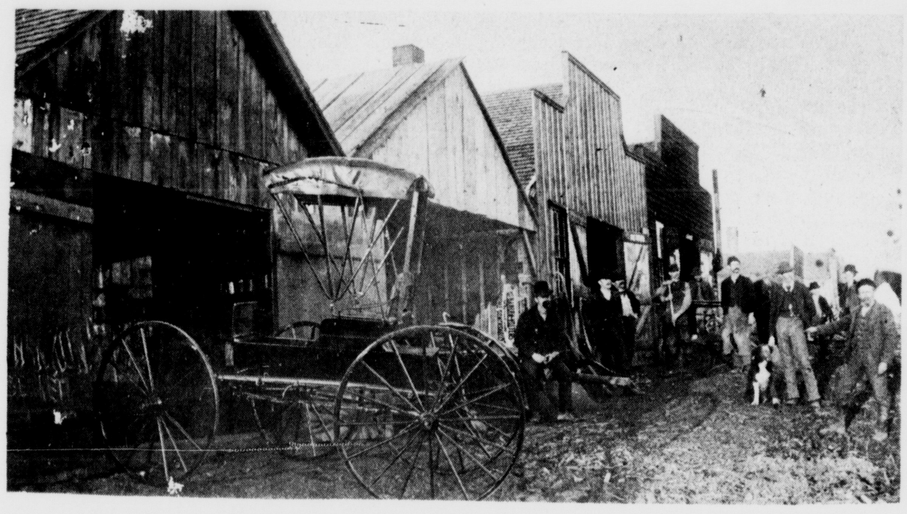

The James Anthonys also, have lived in Syracuse or on a farm near by for many years and one much for the betterment of the community.

Syracuse, which is on Highway 50, like many other towns, grew in importance with the coming of the railroad and then dwindled as the railroad passed by further to the west. IKT has had happy and unhappy experiences but while people have come and gone the old established families have remained with bonds that can be found only in the contentment of a small town.

Wagon Bridge

This wagon bridge across the Lamine River west of Syracuse on Highway 50 was the third at that place. The first was framed in Syracuse, hauled there and built across the river. The house is the Missouri Pacific pump station which pumped water for nearly 100 years.

Syracuse Businesses

This is part of Syracuse on West Front Street taken before 1890. Left to right the first two buildings are pain shops, and third and fourth, blacksmith shop and wood shop, all owned by Pete Siegel. The fifth was Squire Shenkels office, and the sixth, Joe Bonnell's Grocery Store. The man with the spron is Pete Siegel, uncle of Leonard Siegel, Florence. To his right is Albert Thompson, depot agent.

Cambodia Frees Four Captured U. S. Pilots

BANGKOK (AP) — Four American fliers captured in Cambodia a month ago were returned to freedom today as the result of a letter from President Nixon to ruling Prince Norodom Sihanouk of Cambodia.

The four men are Maj. Querin Herlik, Green Bay, Wis.; Laird Osburn, Webster, W.Va.; John Fisher, Gainesville, Fla., and Rob Pryor, Oak Ridge, Tenn.

Stationed in South Vietnam, they were captured on Feb. 12 after their L19 observation plane was shot down near the border between Cambodia and South Vietnam.

The airmen were held in a Cambodian naval barracks, and Sihanouk asked President Nixon to write him a letter asking for their release. Cambodia's Khmer Press Agency said Nixon wrote the Cambodian chief of state on March 8.

The prisoners were released to the Australian Embassy in Phnom Penh Tuesday and arrived in Bangkok today aboard a Burmese airliner.

Jury Finds For Resident In Dispute

A Pettis County jury Tuesday settled a two-way dispute between Charles Walk and the Southwestern Bell Telephone Co., regarding the laying of some cable on the Walk property in 1966.

Originally, the telephone company filed condemnation proceedings to allow the laying of the cable. A commission was appointed to assess damages to the Walk property. Walk was not satisfied with the commission's findings, and filed an exception. Walk later filed a petition for damages against the telephone company, with damages allegedly done to crops, etc., in laying the cable.

The cases were combined Tuesday and heard by the jury, which allowed Walk $2,500 in the condemnation proceedings, and $1,300 in the damage suit. Martin, Gibson and Gardner were the attorneys for the telephone company, and James T. Buckley was the attorney for Walk.

The jurors were Allen M. Pledge, William E. Cason, C. M. Huddleston, C. H. Woodford, Mrs. Harry Wimer, Paul Chemlir, Mrs. John Harvey, Leo Schuber, Kenneth Ryan, Gerald Smith, Mrs. H. A. Joy and Richard Mills.

'Decisions' Group Meets

"Western Europe and the U.S." was the topic of United States foreign policy discussed by the Sedalia Great Decision groups last week.

On the subject of U.S. policies toward NATO 84 per cent of the opinion balloters favored giving more emphasis to peacemaking functions of NATO and expanding its activities in nonmilitary fields. Seventy-nine per cent favored increasing efforts to persuade other NATO members to carry a greater share of the military and financial burden.

In answer to the question, "What policies should the U.S. adopt toward Atlantic and Western European unity?" 47 per cent felt the U.S. should continue the policies of past administrations aimed at equal partnership between the U.S. and a united Western Europe while 43 per cent felt the U.S. should gradually disengage from the affairs of Western Europe and strive to achieve common goals through traditional diplomatic means.

Board

find a solution to the various problems. The group will contact the police department and city officials to obtain help in correcting the situation, it was agreed.

Oscar Lawson, chairman of the legal redress committee of the Pettis County branch of the NAACP, presented a resolution to the board demanding that it take immediate steps to secure compliance with the orders of the Supreme Court of the United States calling for desegration of grade schools in the Sedalia public school system.

Segregation in public schools by reason of race was declared by the Supreme Court in 1954 and by subsequent rulings to be in violation of the U.S. Constitution, Lawson pointed out.

The resolution presented to the board dealt with Hubbard School and the fact that the Sedalia school system has continued to operate Hubbard with a total enrollment and faculty composed entirely of Negroes since 1954, and that, with what was termed one "minor exception," the other Sedalia grade schools' faculty and students are all of the white race.

This matter was discussed by the various committee members with Lawson, but no action was taken by the school board. The matter was presented to the board by state officials in the form of a complaint by the State Human Rights Commission over a month ago. Lawson stated that his committee was only interested in seeing the matter taken care of as soon as possible.

Allied Command Change Made By President

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Nixon announced today Gen. Lyman L. Lemnitzer will relinquish his post as supreme allied commander in Europe July 1 to Gen. Andrew J. Goodpaster.

The White House announcement said the shift in command was made with the consent of the Defense Planning Committee of the North Atlantic Treaty Organization, which met in Brussels today and unanimously adopted a resolution appointing Goodpaster to the post.

Nixon also said he plans to appoint Goodpaster U.S. commander in chief in Europe later this year.

Planning Impossible For Sirhan

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Had Sirhan Bishara Sirhan been examined before the assassination of Sen. Robert F. Kennedy, a defense psychologist says, he probably would have been spotted as a potential murderer.

And yet, Sirhan's mental capacity was so stunted that he could not form a meaningful, mature plot against the senator, Dr. Martin Schorr testified Tuesday in Sirhan's murder trial.

That point is crucial to Sirhan's defense. His lawyers hope to save him from a death sentence by convincing the jury the shooting of Kennedy was the result of a sick, obsessed mind.

Hold Meet On Litter Problem

Stricter disciplinary measures and a continuing anti-litter campaign at Smith-Cotton High School, plus continued efforts of the Police Department in controlling littering and loitering in the school area, are the probable results of a meeting held Wednesday noon at the Coffee Pot Cafe.

The meeting was between Chief of Police Bill Miller, Smith-Cotton Principal Earl Finley, school board members George W. Thompson and Dr. Robert Thompson, Del Heckert, a businessman in the area, and Pat Clark, and another resident of the area.

The meeting was to discuss the littering and loitering problem. The problem was discussed during the regular school board meeting Tuesday night.

At the Wednesday noon meeting it was generally agreed among all concerned that school officials will continue their standing program on littering, which is designed to instill pride among the students themselves.

School officials will "keep a closer watch" on the problem, Finley said.

The principal explained, "We recognize the problem and continually work with the students in an effort to be a good neighbor to the residents of the area. The majority of the students cooperate, but a few do not, and it is these people that give the school a bad name."

Miller said he has agreed to maintain police cars in the area during the noon hour, but this is a busy time in other parts of the city also, and officers and cars are not always available.

Vote On Township Question

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — The Missouri Senate advanced today a bill to abolish township collectors and assessors in the 24 counties still using the old township form of government.

The vote was 17-11, one shy of the 18 that will be needed when the bill comes up for passage.

Sen. John E. Downs, D-St. Joseph, said assessing property on a countywide basis would lead to more uniform assessment and end the opportunity for township assessors to befriend their neighbors by assessing property below actual value.

He was challenged by Sens. William J. Cason, D - Clinton, Richard M. Webster, R-Carthage. They said township assessors know more about local property values than a county assessor and his deputies would.

They noted that most township counties have voted heavily to retain that form of government and urged the Legislature to let this type of home rule continue.

"Only the bureaucrats in Jefferson City and the ivory tower boys who come down from Washington University favor this bill," Webster said.

He said passage of the bill would be taking a long step away from Jeffersonian democracy.

Other bills given first round approval included measure to:

Abolish the separate inspection fee for locker storage plants since they now come under the state meat inspection program.

Allow county courts to decide on local depositories for their share of gas tax funds lying idle until projects are approved by the state highway commission. Now the money is kept in Jefferson City.

Tuesday the House had to lay over a bill to let Kansas City voters double their ½ per cent earnings tax.

Dr. Fielding Speaks To Home Economists

Dr. Joyce Fielding of State Fair Community College was the speaker at the spring dinner meeting of the Home Economists of Pettis County Monday evening at Flat Creek Inn.

Members of the organizaton brought high school girls, usually those interested in becoming home economists, as guests.

Dr. Fielding, directed her talk at the girls' interests and stated that there were 92,000 women in the home economics field in 1966. The real advantage, she pointed out, is that the salaries are adequate and even if a girl marries this is something she may still follow in both a career and in homemaking.

The home economy career, she explained, offers a variety of jobs: teaching, foods, journalism, even part time jobs such as food demonstrations. It is broader in the fields it offers than almost anything, she said.

Dr. Fielding then spoke of State Fair Community College which offers general education to prepare for the home economics course at colleges offering such a course. SFCC does not have home economics course at this time but it has excellent preparatory course, she noted.

Some are ready to go into college directly from high school but some are not, she told the group. State Fair Community College is cheaper, she said, and there is no need for extra clothing as in other colleges and there is the great financial consideration of living at home. It isn't the tuition that is so high in the universities and other colleges, it is living expenses that are so terrific, she pointed out. There is advantage of taking the first two years at the junior college where credits are accepted at other colleges.

Dr. Fielding stated that there are many scholarships being offered to junior college graduates, some very fine ones that take care of everything. In speaking of the State Fair Junior College she pointed out that scholarships are being based on financial need as well as grades, which she felt should be the case.

The speaker was introduced by Mrs. Hubert Finely, president. Invocation was given by Mrs. Louise McKee.

The Wool Contest was discussed for this year and the date was set for Nov. 15. The state contest will be Dec. 13.

All members and guests introduced themselves and told about their occupation, present or past. The guests told where they were attending school.

CMSC Bars Seven Studnts From Campus

WARRENSBURG, Mo. (AP) —Seven students involved in a disturbance on the campus of Central Missouri State College last month have been suspended indefinitely, a college spokesman said Tuesday.

Seven other students were placed on probation and one student was assumed to have accepted suspension when he failed to appear before the student disciplinary committee Monday.

Another student who has finished his work toward a degree will be permitted to graduate although technically suspended. Another had his case continued when he reported ill.

The spokesman said the suspensions can be appealed.

The disturbance broke out Feb. 20 after college officials broke up an unauthorized appearance on campus by members of the Kansas City chapter of the Black Panther party, a militant Negro organization.

About $2,300 worth of windows were broken in the Student Union and three other buildings on campus before the disturbance ended.

Heavy Damage At KOMU From An Explosion

COLUMBIA, Mo. (AP) — An explosion and fire in the University of Missouri's KOMU-TV commercial television station caused heavy damage Tuesday night. No one was injured.

The fire was discovered in the air conditioning room about 8:40 p.m. by an engineer.

The fire, which quickly spread through ventilation ducts to other parts of the building, was under control by 11 p.m.

Dr. Edward Lambert the station's director, declined to estimate the amount of damage, but Miss Linda Lawson, a journalism student from Jefferson City, said Lambert told her the station would probably be off the air at least two weeks.

Another student said he heard an explosion shortly before the fire was discovered.

The station is located six miles from Columbia. It is an affiliate of the National Broadcasting Co. and presents regular network programs to a mid-Missouri audience of about 602,000.

The university station was a pioneer in the field of educational television and broadcasting in 1953.

Viola Lloyd contrasts the old and the new in home radios. Framed by the indoor antenna of a bulky RCA Radiola, circa 1925, Viola holds a compact clock radio currently manufactured by the same company. The antique super-heterodyne radio required an external loud speaker and the ensemble cost $535. In contrast, the newer radio is made to sell for less than $30. (UPI)

Schirra's Astronaut Role Ends

SPACE CENTER, Houston (AP) — Walter M. Schirra, Jr., colorful dean of U.S. astronauts —he's 46 today—is leaving the space program to become a company president.

On the eve of his birthday, the boyish sports car buff announced Tuesday he will enter private business as head of a firm that leases out industrial equipment worldwide.

In his new job he hopes to help develop a space station to be parked in orbit in about 1975.

He views it as a way to "explore the earth as it should be explored," seeking out its mineral deposits and other natural resources from high in the sky.

After 27 years of government service, including nearly a decade in the U.S. space effort, Schirra, a Navy captain, said it wasn't easy to go.

He is the oldest astronaut, one of the original seven, and one of only two astronauts to fly three times in space.

Schirra says he was far from eager when the space agency first offered to make him an astronaut.

"When I started out, I didn't even want to join," he said. "I was asked to come to Washington and they said, 'Would you like to volunteer for this?' and I said, 'No, how do I got home'?"

"You mean you were a reluctant astronaut?" he was asked.

"Very much," he said with a chuckle. But he added: "I wish I were 10 years younger and I could do it all over again."

Negotiators Mark Time

PARIS (AP) — The Vietnam peace talks have taken on the look of a time-marking exercise to hold the fort. They appear to have been downgraded to window-dressing for prospective private activity that might be more fruitful.

Developments could come in diplomatic dialogue between Washington and Hanoi, carried on by third parties, or some time in the future between the Saigon government and the National Liberation Front, the political arm of the Viet Cong.

Statements by South Vietnamese representatives indicate Saigon is sometimes restive under American leadership, of a mind to do some tentative probing of its own, and fed up with what Saigon's foreign minister calls the "dialogue de sourds" —the dialogue of the deaf—in Paris.

The NLF also seems at times to be creating problems for its North Vietnamese sponsors by publicly and categorically resisting the idea of secret negotiations.

Neither the South Vietnamese government nor the National Liberation Front appears overenthused by the idea of secret talks. Either might be presented with some sort of fait accompli worked out by the United States and North Vietnam.

The NLF insists that anything the Americans want to bring up can be discussed at the weekly talk sessions, which have produced nothing but repetitious statements of mutually unacceptable postions.

The South Vietnamese government seems to want to turn its back on Paris and search hopefully for some long-range solution with elements of the NLF or with Hanoi.

The United States would have no objection to such a Vietnamese solution if it proved workable. But it might be unhappy if Saigon sought to exclude other avenues, including secret U.S.-North Vietnamese contacts.

Hanoi's representatives have indicated at times that they favor the idea of secret negotiations but complain that the Americans have barred the way. The Americans have been saying all along that they consider secret negotiations the only hope of progress toward peace.

The impression here is that the Nixon administration has not yet given its delegation the green light for any determined approach to Hanoi's representatives to set up secret contacts. The new President is still feeling his way, still pondering the meaning of the latest enemy offensive in South Vietnam and whether that requires any additional responsive action.

Few doubt that the offensive is aimed directly at the Paris talks, and that it will go on as long as the Communist command feel it has a chance of eroding the patience of the U.S. public.

What the NLF wants more than any other thing in Paris, apparently, is recognition. It wants to force the Americans into talking directly to its representatives rather than to what the Americans call "the other side," a term lumping the NLF and Hanoi delegations together and implying that they are one. The NLF wants the recognition to be public and unmistakable.

POWDER LINE

By Lynda Bernhardt

The "Ritual of the Bath" may have been invented by the early Romans, but no one could be more appreciative of this custom, were she able to enjoy it properly, than today's woman.

We know that baths are not just for cleaning because showers perform that function quite well. Baths are for daydreaming, relaxing and beautifying or so we are told.

The daydreaming is easily accomplished while lavishing yourself with scented soaps and bubble bath, but the relaxing may be something else again, especially if your home possesses only one bathroom.

It is impossible to relax with someone pounding on the door, small children quarreling and the family dog trying to be another Caruso for his girlfriend next door.

What is needed is a private, all-to-yourself bath complete with sunken tub, plush carpet and lush, thick turkish towels. At least that would do for a start.

Add to this, the soaps, scents and softeners that promise the worldly beauty of the richest and most famous women. Unfortunately, I have yet to emerge from my evening dunking looking anything like Sophia Loren.

It is most unfortunate that our baths do not resemble those luxurious hide-aways shown in ad and TV commercials. More than likely, the decor consists of a week's supply of towels draped everywhere imaginable, six rubber ducks and a crumpled tube of toothpaste with the top missing.

When a quiet opportunity finally presents itself, and you have cleared the bath of toys, shoes, and all the other things that didn't belong there in the first place, you usually settle for a tub of hot water, sans bubbles, a usable towel and a tube of toothpaste with the top in place.

Afternoon Vows Unite Rohrbach - J. Wilson

Mrs. James A. Wilson

JEFFERSON CITY — In an afternoon ceremony Feb. 15 at Immaculate Conception Church, Miss Carolyn Sue Rohrbach became the bride of James Anthony Wilson. The Rev Donald Wallace performed the double ring ceremony for the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Earl Dean Rohrbach, California, and the son of Mr. and Mrs. Floyd G. Wilson, Plainsfield, Ill.

Miss Sarah Goedde, organist, accompanied William Prenger as he sang traditional selections.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride chose a gown of imported silk organza and Chantilly lace over bouquet taffeta. The smooth fitting bodice featured scalloped Sabrina neckline and traditional long sleeves that tapered to a point over the wrists. The wide chapel length train of jeweled lace and silk organza was attached at the shoulders. Her headpiece, fashioned of silk petals and lace, secured the full bouffant veil of imported silk illusion and she carried a cascade bouquet of red roses and white carnations.

Miss Pat Phillips, Brookfield, Mo., was maid of honor, and Miss Deanna Rohrbach and Miss Phyllis Rohrbach, sisters of the bride, were bridesmaids. The attendants wore identical empire floor length gowns of red satin accented with a bow at the waist. Each carried a long-stemmed rose.

Miss Roberta Blankenship, cousin of the bride and daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Blankenship, Fortuna, was flower girl. She was dressed like the attendants and carried a white satin basket with red and white petals.

Timmy Wilson, nephew of the groom, and son of Mr. and Mrs. Wayne Wilson, was ring bearer.

Wayne Wilson, St. Louis, brother of the groom, was best man. Groomsmen were Kenny Kaufmann, Jefferson City, and Kenny Cook, California. The guests were seated by Dick Kaufman, Jefferson City and Jerry Lachner, Rolla.

A reception in Pleau Hall followed the ceremony.

Misses Dianne and Shirley Wilson, sisters of the groom, presided at the guest book. Mrs. Anna Mae O'Halleron and Miss Sharon Buchanon were in charge of the gift table.

Assisting generally were Harriet Kauffman, Sharon Distler, Barbara Rodemann and Judy Zelinsky.

The bride is a 1967 graduate of California High School. The groom is a 1966 graduate of Fatima High School, Westphalia, and is employed by Wadsworth Construction Co., Plainsfield.

The couple resides in Plainfield, Ill.

Doing Your Own 'Thing' In Denim

NEW YORK — (NEA) — Whatever your fashion thing — dressy or demure, casual or chic — you can do it in denim this year. There are denims in stripes, solids, plaids, prints, Paisleys and even denim that resembles a textured knit weave.

If you have always wanted to be Doris Darling in a crisp-looking shift, you'll find just the right dress in a red, white and blue striped denim, gathered at the waist with a slim self-tie belt and tailored collar and cuffs.

If being Stella Stunning is your bag, there's a "ver-r-ry interesting" evening gown in light blue denim that is dramatic to say the least. While the dress has formal length cover-up and demure long sleeves, there's more than a hint of the nude look from midriff to below the waistline, held together with a slim T panel. The backline is bare — with only a gold braid bra-tie to break the nude line from shoulders to hip.

Pants are paramount this year and you'll see them in denim from slim-stripe bell bottoms and culottes to all-in-one denim jumpsuits in solid colors and plaids with barrel-leg width to leisure hostess pajamas that affect the Jean Harlow look.

Then take jeans. Women are buying jeans as though they were going out of style — a paradox, to be sure, since the buying spree indicates the opposite condition.

Belive it or not, jeans are being worn everywhere from posh restaurants to equally swanky movie premieres.

It was Lynda Bird's pretty sister-in-law, Trenny Robb, who skinned into jeans for a premiere.

Demure but daring—that's denim in the light blue evening gown (left) with its cover-up sleeves and low-plunging backline and bare midriff look. By Ruth Graves of Gussie and Becky, it comes with a richly brocaded sleeveless evening coat. The colorful denim shift (right) has a gathered waist with a self-tie belt and tailored collar and cuffs. It is by Ginori of Originala.

But space-age jeans are not the kind one used to wear to clean out the basement.

They are low hipped, snug and have a fly front for perfect fit. No bulges allowed.

So unless you're in shape forget the jean bit. But make it denim whatever you choose.

Just to prove that that old favorite fabric can do anything, go anywhere, there are even accordion-pleated pants and skirts in denim.

It's also keeping company with such fancy fabrics as chiffon and brocade, using them for complementary costume accents.

So let's tell it like it is. The next time you're invited to some soignee affair, don your denims and be the most chic chick at the ball.

Military wives should attend at least one orientation every three years in order to keep up to date with all the current changes and to reacquaint herself with old facts.

YOU MAY HAVE PIN-WORMS AND NOT KNOW IT

Fidgeting, nose-picking, a tormenting rectal itch are often telltale signs of Pin-Worms...ugly parasites that medical experts say infest 1 out of every 3 persons examined. Extire families may be victims and not know it.

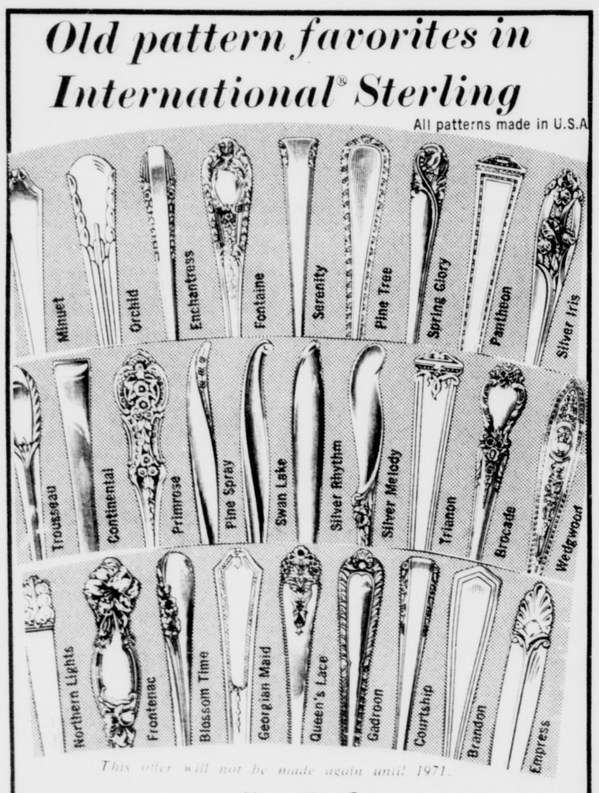

To get rid of Pin-Worms, they must be killed in the large intestine where they live and multiply. That's exactly what Jayne's P-W tablets do...and here's how they do it:

First—a scientific coating carries the tablets into the bowels before they dissolve. Then — Jayne's modern, medically-approved ingredient goes right to work—kills Pin-Worms quickly, easily. Ask your pharmacist.

Don't take chances with dangerous, highly contagious Pin-Worms which infect entire families. Get genuine Jayne's P-W Vermifuge . . . . small, easy-to-take tablets . . . special doses for children and adults.

Ann Landers

Friend Seeking A Safe Hide-out

Dear Ann Landers: I am a widow, the mother of four children. I always look for the good in my friends. I hate gossip and never believe anything unless I see it with my own eyes. Lately I've seen a lot.

My best friend (also the mother of four) told me last week that she is in love with a married man. Etta knows my roomer is leaving and wants to rent the room so she and her lover will have a safe place to meet.

According to Etta they are not doing anything wrong because the man's wife is sickly and cannot satisfy his sex needs. Her husband, she says, gave up sex on his 40th birthday when the doctor told him he has a high cholesterol count. He is afraid of a heart attack.

I could sure use the income but I think this is wrong. Etta says it is a sin not to help people who need it and that she needs help desperately. I'd appreciate your advice. — STRAINED FRIENDSHIP

Dear Friend: Etta needs help all right, but not the kind she's asking for. Tell her no. If you allow this confused woman to turn your home into a hide-out in exchange for a few dollars, you'll regret it.

Dear Ann Landers: A few weeks ago I was shopping in the supermarket. I grabbed a cart without looking and threw in a big box of detergent. I heard a loud yelp and a woman came rushing at me yelling, "You fool. You've hurt my cat!" I didn't see the cat in the cart and he wasn't hurt. I just scared him. But she kept yelling and people started to stare. Finally I told her to shut up and I left.

Sunday I went to a wedding and met the niftiest guy in the whole world. When he introduced me to his parents I'd like to have died. His mother was the lady in the supermarket. She looked at me funny but I'm not sure she remembered. I know I'm going to see this guy again. Should I say anything to him? Mom says, "Honesty is the best policy." What do you say? — TINKERBELLE

Dear Tink: I agree that honesty is the best policy, but telling everything you know is not honesty and it's not smart.

Keep quiet unless the woman brings up the incident, in which case, tell the truth.

———

Dear Ann Landers: I have a lonesome relative who telephones every day and talks anywhere from one to three hours. I feel sorry for Aunt Mae but where's the limit?

I have three children. When one interrupts to ask permission to do something, Aunt Mae becomes irritated and berates me for not teaching my children better manners.

Am I being too permissive or should I expect a six-year-old to stand by the phone for an hour and wait to ask if he can go to the neighbor's house to play? — MOD MOTHER

Dear Mother: You're a prize sucker if you allow yourself to be lashed to the phone from one to three hours — every day yet! When a child asks a question, that's the time to end the conversation. You owe your kids more than you owe Aunt Mae.

Rocky Lists Objectives

ALBANY, N.Y. (AP) — Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller said today he will go to South America as the ears of the White House —to receive views of national leaders "on whatever subjects they wish to discuss."

Accordingly, the New York governor said, he will make no effort during a series of forthcoming trips to promote a new "Good Neighbor" policy he drafted last year when he was competing with Richard M. Nixon for the presidency.

The policy was set forth in a 3,000-word paper saying that if nominated and elected Rockefeller would propose among other things:

—Establishing a "small peace-keeping force" under the Organization of American States (OAS) "for use in disputes among members or, more importantly, in cases where elements alien to the hemisphere threaten the security of any member."

—Bringing Canada into the OAS on the ground that "our northern neighbor has a major contribution to make to Western hemisphere relations."

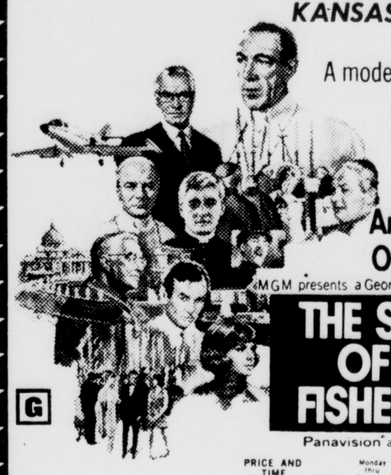

—Strengthening the OAS by establishing "a constituent body" made up of parliamentary representatives from the American republics.

—Establishing a Latin American common market and encouraging creation of a hemisphere free trade area.

—Opening the East Andean jungles to development and harnessing South America's "vast water potential" by creating seven huge artificial lakes with low-level dams at an estimated cost of $500 million. Rockefeller did not pinpoint the sites.

—Undertaking cooperative efforts to establish regional universities, solve urban problems and "mobilize the youth of the hemisphere for social progress."

Laos Is Weary of War

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — The Laotian peasantry seems bone tired of civil war which has washed across the countryside, consuming sons and fathers, since shortly after the end of World War II.

Many, perhaps most, would settle for peace at almost any price. They understand but dimly the international struggle between East and West which has focused here in the form of Asian mutants of democracy and communism.

The United State and the Soviet Union are working toward an accommodation between the Communist Pathet Lao and the government of neutralists and rightists. U.S. sources concede that if the accommodation jells it may be more in the interests of world peace than of the Laotians themselves.

Key politicians say any arrangement to end the civil war that would pit the Communists and the fragmented center and left against each other at the polls — any time soon, perhaps for years — would almost inevitably mean a Communist takeover.

Premier Prince Souvanna Phouma repeatedly has warned that only a party of national union, forged of the divergent center and right factions, can prevent political disaster. Antagonisms, some reaching back centuries, fragment the non-Communists along regional, racial, family and political lines. The Communists have succeeded in bridging some of these gaps on their side through a tough political dicipline unheard of in Laos before.

Some who realize the time for meeting the Communists at the ballot box may not be far off have tried to create the framework for a disciplined political organization. They want to prevent an electoral debacle such as occurred in 1958 in the last free elections in Laos contested by the left. Of 21 seats at stake, nine were won by the Communist Neo Lao Hak Xat party and four by the radical leftist Peace party. Four went to then-Premier Phoui Sananikone's party and the rest were scattered among other feuding factions.

Justice Minister Inpeng Suryadhay is trying to form a National Patriotic People's party, a political blanket he hopes can be spread from the moderate left to the powerful far right.

"You have to have some kind of arms to go into political battle," Inpeng said. "We have none now."

It will be about two years before his proposed party, backed by Souvanna, will be ready to meet the Communists at the polls, he added.

His view of the time needed is shared by Thao Sopsaisana, a rightist and deputy leader of the National Assembly and advocate of a front movement that would preserve the identity of the individual parties. Some Western diplomats believe Thao's plan has a better chance of adoption, but a weaker chance than Inpeng's of winning a ballot box victory.

"I can assure you we are not anywhere near ready for an election now," Thao said in an interview. "We must organize so the power comes upward from the people and not from the top. We have tried that before and always failed."

There is no indication that the right, especially, would settle for such a scheme. Powerful family groups have ruled Laos for centuries from the top and are not expected to change soon, even at the cost of disunity, say diplomats whose job it is to keep in close touch with the political groups.

One of the things that overshadows attempts to build an effective opposition to the Communists is Souvanna Phouma's determination to retire from the political scene. At 67, Souvanna says he is tired, and especially tired of politics. In recent years he has alternately been spurned and plotted against by the United States, abandoned in crisis by the Soviet Union, seen his own neutralist ranks splinter, felt the wrath of the far right which once imprisoned and threatened to execute him, and always has been threatened by the Communists.

"It's been a rather full political career," a U.S. diplomat quips.

There is no one else on the scene who is widely known, was a member of the anti-French nationalist movement, commands a respect that crosses family, regional and party lines.

Even the right wing fears Souvanna's retirement. "He simply must stay on in at least titular capacity, for the national interest. There is no other," said Thao.

Fairmont and Washburn To Clash In Round Two

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Top-rated Fairmont State of West Virginia led a field of 16 survivors into the second round of the 32nd NAIA basketball tournament today.

The Falcons, ranked second in the final NAIA rankings, breezed past outmanned Indiana Central, 93-75, Tuesday night as the first round ended.

That sent Fairmont against Washburn University of Topeka, Kan., at 7 p.m. tonight. Washburn, highly popular with the partisan Municipal Auditorium crowd in a 90-68 romp past Western Montana Monday night, has the speed and quickness to challenge Fairmont.

Second-seeded Howard Payne of Texas met Central Washington State, a 92-82 victor over New Haven of Connecticut, at 2:45 p.m. today.

Third-seeded and defending champion Central Ohio State was ushered to the sidelines by Monmouth, N.J., 63-59, Monday. Monmouth met Asheville-Biltmore, N.C., at 1 p.m. in the second round.

High Point, N.C., College, the No. 4 seeded team, outlasted Missouri-St. Louis, 102-90, Tuesday night and goest against Whittier, Calif., which whipped Corpus Christi, 77-66, at 8:45 p.m.

Besides Fairmont and High Point, other highly-seeded teams advancing Tuesday were fifth-seeded Eastern Michigan, which beat Georgetown, Ky., 87-85, and sixth-seeded Gannon, Pa., College, which drubbed Jackson, Miss., State, 81-58.

Eastern Michigan took on Eastern New Mexico at 11:15 a.m. today, while Gannon is paired against Henderson, Ark., College at 10:30 p.m.

Wartburg of Iowa, the only unbeaten team coming into the tournament and seeded seventh, was ousted by Maryland State, 99-90, spoiling the Iowans' 25-game winning streak.

Henderson squeezed past St. John's of Minnesota, 78-76, in Tuesday's most thrilling battle as Warren Harshaw streaked behind a defender to take a length-of-court pass and hit a layup at the final buzzer.

Other second-round games today pitted Elizabeth City, N.C., against Southwestern Oklahoma at 9:30 a.m. and Stout, Wis., State against Maryland State at 5:15 p.m.

Missouri-St. Louis jumped off to a 10-4 lead over High Point and led as late as 40-39 with less than five minutes left in the first half. High Point broke on top 53-49 at halftime and outscored the Rivermen 10-4 at the outset of the second half to grab a 10-point lead.

Closest St. Louis could come after that was a five-point deficit, 65-60. High Point spurted again to pull out of range at 84-67 with eight minutes left.

Greg Daust paced the Rivermen's losing effort with 25 points. Jack Stenner added 17 and Dennis Caldwell for St. Louis, which finished its season with a 19-7 record.

Javier Ready To Sign

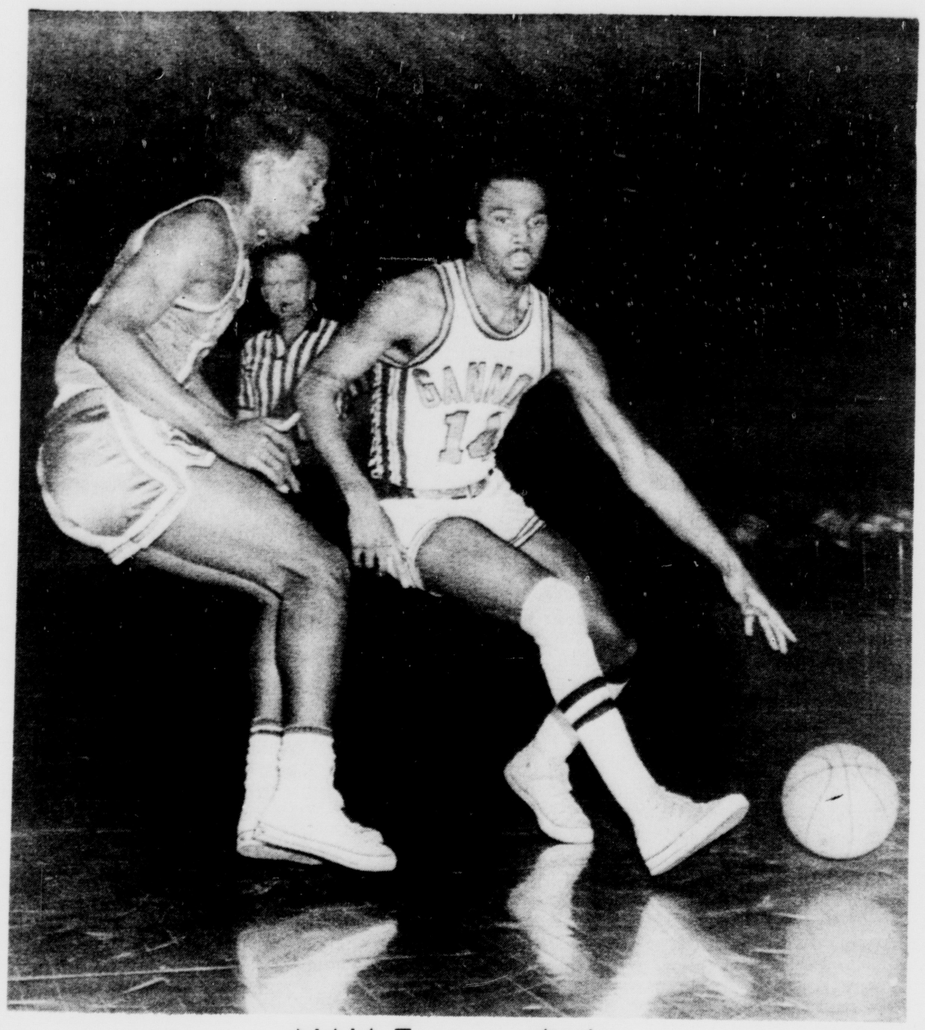

ST. PETERSBURG, Fla. (AP) — St. Louis Cardinals General Manager Bing Devine said Tuesday he received word from Julivan Javier that the second baseman was ready to sign a contract for the original terms offered.

Devine said Javier will fly to St. Petersburg Thursday night and is expected to sign Friday and begin practice that day.

Last Friday, Javier reversed a decision to sign a contract and returned to his home in the Dominican Republic. He had reported last Thursday night and had agreed to sign the next day. But Friday morning he announced that he wasn't signing.

Javier, whose batting average dropped 21 points to .260 last season, was reportedly originally offered about $52,000, an increase of $7,000 over 1968.

Javier was the last of the National League champions' holdouts.

Main Event Taken By Bruce Hall

A large crowd at convention hall Tuesday night saw an action-packed wrestling program. Newcomer Bruce Kirk defeated Tor Kamata in the main event.

Kirk took the first fall with a reverse shoulder press at 12:50, then Kamata came back at 4:35 with a judo chop and press to pin his opponent. Kirk retaliated to win the match at 3:15 with a flying mare and press.

The opening event, one fall or 15 minute limit, ended with Lord Littlebrook with winner over Fuzzy Cupid at 6:25 with a reverse shoulder press.

Wee Willie Wilson bested Little Bruiser in a battle of the midgets in a one-fall or 15 minute route, an added attraction. Wilson took the match with a body slam and press at nine minutes.

Pampero Firpo's return to wrestling occurred in customary style; the brawling 240-pounder hit referee Dick Moody, who awarded the Argentine's opponent, Earl Maynard, the match at 17 minutes 40 seconds of the scheduled one-fall, 30 minute tussle.

The semi-final, a five-man midget battle royal, went to Little Bruiser over Lord Littlebrook, Fuzzy Cupid, Wee Willie Wilson and Mighty Atom. The bruising Bruiser took the victory at 10 minutes 40 seconds, after each of the others were thrown over the top rope and eliminated. Bruiser won $250.

CMSC's Morrow Pool Site For MIAA Meet

WARRENSBURG — A big weekend is in store for the Central Missouri State College swimmers as they host the MIAA conference championships March 14 and 15.

Coach Tom Hairabedian's Mules will face their stiffest competition in recent years from Northwest Missouri and Southwest Missouri State Colleges. Hairabedian noted the meet may be close enough that the championship might not be decided until the final event.

The Mules enter the MIAA annual meet making a determined bid for their fourth consecutive conference title. The CMSC swimmers ended their regular season with a 11-4 overall record which included winning their final eight outings.

Hairabedian, seven year veteran at the Mule helm, feels freshman Cary Hersh will have to score high to keep the title hopes bright for Missouri State. The Miami, Fla. ace has made his presence felt among the competitors, especially in the 1,000 yard freestyle, in which he has turned an 11:42 time among competition.

Percentage-wise, the Southwest Missouri State Bears come to Morrow Pool with a better record than the defending champions. They share an 8-2 record showing with Northwest Missouri as top contenders to break the CMSC streak.

Both losses handed to the Bears were 53-51 scores, one by Hendrix College and the other by the Mules.

A well balanced squad etches the team's possibilities of being the new champs backed with performances by freestyler Ray Schnieder and sprinter Jim Graf. Terry McBrayer and Steve Artalle back the two standouts with swimming power.

Also fielding an 8-2 record, the Northwest Missouri State College Bearcats will be making their strongest bid in recent years for the MIAA crown.

Sporting good depth, the 'Cats feel they have the second strongest team in the school's swimming annals. The Northwest Missouri Staters were 8-1 in 1963. This season's two losses feature a one point, 54-53, fall to the hands of Wayne State and a key loss to Southwest Missouri at Springfield.

The ace for the Bearcats is diver Vic Konecny. His performances have received outstanding acclaim all season. Backing Konecny is 100 yard Individual Medley speedster Irvin Green. Another backing the team in individual efforts is 500 and 1,000 yard ace Bob Saunders.

The Southeast Missouri State Indians enter the conference meet with a 5-5 showing and a good chance to be the dark horse of the tilt.

Backed with the efforts of Harold Bliggenstorfer, undefeated breaststroker, the Southeast swimmers feature top point takers as their strong suit.

Greg Knopf has turned in top times in the freestyle sprints and diver Ricky Gilliland has made exceptional showings in the diving events. Bliggenstorfer is backed with the efforts of Ron Anfinson.

Morrow Pool on the Central Missouri State College campus will be the site for the event March 14 and 15.

Snyder Stays

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — Youthful Brad Snyder, an interim coach who made the most of a six-game trial, is Northwestern University's new head basketball coach.

Snyder, 30, Wildcat cage captain eight seasons ago, was named Tuesday to replace Larry Glass, whose sudden resignation Feb. 1 gave his erstwhile assistant a chance to direct Northwestern in the final six games of the Big Ten season.

Snyder revived the sagging Wildcats to a 4-2 record, hoisting them from last place to a fifth-place finish.

Jockey Suffers Cut

NEW YORK (AP) — Jockey Ron Turcotte suffered a cut over his left eye when he fell off his mount, Iron Warrior, in the third race at Aqueduct race track Tuesday.

SFCC Banquet Speaker Mizzou Coach Stewart

Cardinals Bomb Philadelphia 8-1

CLEARWATER, Fla. (AP) — The St. Louis Cardinals batted around in two consecutive innings Tuesday to overpower the Philadelphia Phillies 8-1 in an exhibition baseball game.

A home run by Larry Hisle was the only Phillies' run against three Cards pitchers.

Hisle connected off starter Gary Waslewski in the second inning. The Cards promptly retaliated with a four-run outburst against Barry Lersch, scored three more against Bill Laxton in the fourth inning and added a final run in the ninth off Billy Wolfe.

FORT MYERS, Fla. (AP) — Johnny Bench slammed a triple, double and single Tuesday to drive in three runs and lead Cincinnati to a 6-1 exhibition baseball victory over the Kansas City Royals.

Gary Nolan, Tony Cloninger and Clay Carroll each pitched three innings and held the Royable to four hits to break a three-game Kansas City winning streak.

The Royals scored their only run in the first inning off Nolan on a double by Mike Fiore and a single by Steve Whitaker.

Meely, White Highlight All Big Eight Selections

KANSAS CITY (AP) — Cliff Meely of Colorado, who made the biggest splash for a sophomore in the Big Eight since Wilt Chamberlain a dozen years before him, was the only unanimous choice on the all-conference basketball team announced today by the Associated Press.

Also featured on the 1969 AP all-Big Eight team is the selection of Kansas' great Jo Jo White to a special first-team berth, making it a six-man team.

Joining Meely and White on the first team were Bill Cain of Iowa State, Dave Robisch of Kansas, Don Tomlinson of Missouri and Steve Honeycutt of Kansas State.

The second team includes Gordon Tope of Colorado, Gene Williams of Kansas State, Aaron Jenkins of Iowa State, Joe Smith of Oklahoma State and David Pike of Missouri.

Named to the third team were Jerry Venable of Kansas State, Clifford Ray of Oklahoma, Bruce Sloan of Kansas and Marvin Stewart and Tom Scantlebury of Nebraska.

Meely, a 6-foot-7 product of Chicago who spent his freshman season at Northeastern Junior College in Sterling, Colo., before transferring to the University of Colorado, broke Chamberlain's sophomore record by scoring 348 points in 14 league games for a 24.9 average. Chamberlain scored 305 points in 1957.

Meely was named to the first team by all eight conference coaches and all 28 writers and broadcasters participating in the AP vote. Cain and Robisch were near-unanimous selections.

While White was a second-team All-American selection by the AP and was eligible for the all-conference team, some who participated in the balloting did not consider it fair to name him to the team when he played in only six of Kansas' 14 league games.

The AP picked White to its first all-Big Eight team, nonetheless, because he was the conference's top All-American selection. White's eligibility expired at the end of the first semester.

Cain waged a nip-and-tuck statistical battle with Meely all season, winding up the league's No. 2 scorer and top rebounder over Meely. He averaged 21 points and 14 rebounds.

Robisch is the Big Eight's second premier sophomore — behind Meely. He averaged nearly 20 points a game as Kansas' top point-getter and caused most conference foes to adjust their defenses whenever they played the Jayhawks.

Tomlinson, although bothered by chronic tendonitis in his heel, overcame this handicap to play in all 14 Missouri league games and ranked as the conference's No. 4 scorer at nearly 17 points a game.

Honeycutt is the only senior on the first team, aside from White. He closed out his stellar Kansas State career as one of the highest scorers in Wildcat history.

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Here is the 1969 Associated Press All-Big Eight Conference basketball team:

1969 Buffs On Top; In Cellar In 1968

BOULDER, Colo. (AP) — In one year, Colorado's Buffaloes leaped from last place to first by snatching the Big Eight Conference basketball title on the final night of the regular campaign.

They charged to the title by whipping Missouri 92-73 at Boulder Saturday night while Kansas, with a crack at a championship tie, fell before Kansas State 64-57.

Ironically, Colorado's opening foe in the NCAA Midwest regionals at Manhattan, Kan., Thursday night will be a former home state rival, Colorado State University.

Although the universities are just 30 miles apart, their teams haven't clashed in major sports for a number of years. CSU advanced to the regionals by whipping Dayton Saturday night 52-50.

The strongest point getter for the new Big Eight champions is Cliff Meely, who set a conference record for sophomores this season with 348 points in league games. His over-all mark is 609 points.

But the spark in the championship-clinching triumph was supplied for Colorado by little Gordie Tope, who flipped in 29 points against Missouri.

Coach Russell (Sox) Walseth said Tope and Tim Wedgeworth "were the guys who helped us most in getting that halftime lead."

He said Meely "played a terrific game even though he didn't shoot as well as usual."

Meely, an agile sharpshooter, said he couldn't explain why he wasn't up to his usual accuracy. "For some reason I haven't shot as well on this floor all year as I did on the road," he said.

Meely added:

"I'm just glad we got Sox a championship. He's a wonderful guy and all for his players. We give him all we've got every time out."

Walseth, looking back over the season, said, "We had a lot of good efforts—not only in this game, but all season. Our guys were really gassed up and I thought we played real well."

The CU coach added he was happy Kansas lost as his team hadn't looked forward to going to Manhattan for a playoff Monday night. This had been arranged in case the teams finished in a first-place tie.

POLLY'S POINTERS

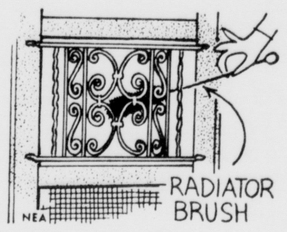

Less TV Watching Betters School Marks

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—When our oldest daughter was in the fourth grade she started bringing home "F" test papers for me to sign. I could not understand this as she had always been a good student. I realized the children were doing their homework in the afternoons, instead of playing out of doors, just so they could watch television in the evening. One night my daughter asked if she could finish studying for a test during the commercials on one of her favorite programs and I foolishly agreed. In a few days I signed another "F" paper. This made me sit up and take notice.

I decided to cut out television watching on school nights. That was three children and seven years ago, and I have never been so pleased with any rule I have made. No more grade problems, no arguments about playing outside after school. They began to enjoy reading, music and other creative pastimes and soon learned that if the television was on in the living room, they studied in another part of the house. They were only denied this four nights a week, leaving three nights to watch television as a family. They now watch less even on weekends since they have learned there are other entertaining ways to spend one's time.—WANDA

DEAR POLLY—I find that a radiator brush is great to use for cleaning behind the grille work on an aluminum storm door. The round brush reaches in all directions, and the long handle helps cover the entire area. This eliminates the removal of the grille. A rag wound around the brush helps with cleaning the glass.—PAULINE

DEAR POLLY—When closing the zipper in a garment that is not being worn, hold the garment upside down and the zipper will work very easily.—MARIE

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—We have two mummy-shaped, down-filled sleeping bags that are old and are tearing. I hope someone will tell me how to re-cover them.—CAROL

KC Lincoln Faces Prep Suspension

KANSAS CITY (AP)—Lincoln High School in Kansas City may be suspended from interscholastic athletic competition in the wake of beatings of fans and officials after a state tournament basketball game Monday night.

F. C. Baker, principal of St. Joseph Central High School, Lincoln's opponent, said he and several fans along with the two officials of the game were attacked.

St. Joseph defeated Lincoln in Kansas City 76-67. Baker said that "under no circumstances" would he permit the team to return tonight for a scheduled quarter final Class L game with Chrisman of Independence.

The Missouri State High School Activities Association was to decide if that game would be moved because of the protests.

James A. Hazlett, superintendent of Kansas City shools, said a full investigation will be conducted before the Board of Education meets March 20 when a decision is likely on Lincoln's possible suspension.

Hazlett said a formal apology to the injured persons and to Central High School had been issued by the board and Lincoln would also be asked to apologize.

However Hazlett said, "We don't want to make any blanket condemnation of any school. There are other alternative measures to suspension."

Prep Stars Named As All-Americans

LOS ANGELES, CALIF. — The nation's most outstanding high school senior football players were recently named to the 21st annual Prep All-America Football Team.

The Midwest, South backs dominated the top 10, but 44 states in all were represented in the selections of the mythical team, co-sponsored by Sunkist Growers and Coach and Athlete Magazine.

Honorable mention honors went to more than 500 high and prep school seniors from 48 states.

Named as one of the top ten was Mike Cerne of Lawrence, Kan. High School. Cerne is a 180 pound, 6' halfback.

Named on the Missouri Prep All-American Team were Calvin Payne, a 228 pound tackle, from Soldan High School in St. Louis and Mark Mueller a backfield star from Cleveland High School also in St. Louis.

Six footballers from Missouri also received honorable mention, they were: Dan Nerling of William Chrisman, Independence; Jim Taylor from Perryville; Marvin Foster, quarterback from Kansas City Central; Pat Ryan, an end from Kansas City De LaSalle; Bob Platte of Weston High School; and Bob Bruegging, senior quarterback of Kansas City Southwest.

According to Dwight T. Keith, publisher of Coach and Athlete and chairman of the selection committee, the top ten recognition was based on academic accomplishment, civic interest and leadership.

Tuesday Baseball Roundup

By TOM SALADINO
Associated Press Sports Writer

A grand slam home run snapped Boston's winning spring season but Red Sox Manager Dick Williams was smiling. His thoughts were on bigger things — like a crashing double by Tony Conigliaro.

The Minnesota Twins, aided by Ted Uhlaender's second-inning home run with the bases full, stopped Boston 7-6 Tuesday, after the Red Sox had taken their first three spring baseball exhibitions.

In the top of the inning, Conigliaro smashed a pitch by lefthander Jim Ollum off the fence in left center field for a stand-up double. A strong wind helped cut down what looked like a sure home run.

"He's looked very, very good," an elated Williams said. "There isn't a gutsier player in the American League," referring to the 24-year-old Tony C, who is trying to come back after a near-disastrous beaning by California pitcher Jack Hamilton which fractured his cheekbone on Aug. 18, 1967.

Conigliaro, whose hit was his first of the spring—although he's been hitting the ball hard —is now one for six. More importantly he has only struck out once and that was a called third strike.

Last spring Conigliaro attempted to come back, but after getting only six hits in 55 at bats and striking out 22 times, the 1965 AL home run champion, gave up in despair.

However the outfielder now says his eyesight is perfect again and Williams is counting on him for a regular berth.

Meanwhile, another fellow named Williams—Ted—wasn't doing much smiling.

The new manager of the Washington Senators had seen his team lose five straight times although they did end a scoreless string at 19 innings.

Baltimore nipped Washington 2-1, helped by 14 bases on balls by Senator pitching. Tim Cullen's run-scoring single in the eighth inning got Washington its run.

In other Florida exhibitions, Atlanta stopped Houston 5-3, Detroit nipped Pittsburgh 5-4, Cincinnati topped Kansas City 6-1, the New York Mets crushed the Philadelphia Phillies B team 15-7, the New York Yankees whipped the Chicago White Sox 5-3, St. Louis mauled the Phillies 8-1 and Los Angeles got by Montreal, 4-1.

In Arizona, Oakland crushed San Francisco 11-5, Cleveland nudged San Diego 5-3 and California downed the Chicago Cubs 7-4.

Clete Boyer's homer and a two-run single by Mike Lum in the eighth inning gave the Braves their victory over the Astros. Denis Menke had a home run for Houston.

Dick McAuliffe's double and Mickey Stanley's RBI single in the ninth broke a 4-4 tie as the Tigers edged the Pirates. Detroit rookie Ron Woods had tied the game in the eighth with a solo home run.

Johnny Bench cracked a single, double and triple and knocked in three runs, leading the Reds over Kansas City, ending the Royals' winning string at three.

Cleon Jones hit for the cycle —single, double, triple and home run—as the Mets won their first spring game.

SHAVING STROKES

by Frank Beard

2—On the Practice Tee

Think of a golf hole, any golf hole. Then imagine yourself playing that hole, shot by shot. Birdie? Eagle?

Imagination, believe it or not, can improve your game on the practice tee. It has mine. It can yours.

I don't practice a lot because I burn myself out, physically and mentally. When I do practice, I find it helps me more if I work on my mental conditioning rather than the actual execution of shots.

I've more than likely played the course before, wherever it may be, so while I'm on the practice tee I imagine myself as playing various and sundry shots on the golf course that I've played before—shots that I know crop up during each tournament here.

Maybe there are two or three or four holes that bug me, so instead of just pounding shot after shot off the practice tee, I try to gear my thinking until it is prepared for these situations.

If there is a par four hole that usually leaves me a 4-iron to the green, I practice that shot. Maybe it's a special kind of 4-iron. Maybe it's a high green and I have to cut it to hold green. Maybe the prevailing winds are in my face and I have to knock it down.

Well, I imagine that I'm standing on this spot and I'll hit that 4-iron shot as though I was in the last round of the tournament rather than just pound it and pound it.

It's very rare that you get just exactly a 4-iron to the green, anyway.

Cleveland Has Pitching But Where's The Power

TUCSON, ARiz. (AP) — Alvin Dark has a brand new five-year contract as manager of the Cleveland Indians and the dream that somewhere lurking about on his roster are the hitters who can give him a pennant four years before it runs out.

"We've got pitching and defense," said Dark. "That's what we've got. It's just a question of how many runs we can score."

Last season, the Indians scored fewer runs than everybody in the American League except Chicago and California. Thus, their third-place finish bears witness to just what kind of pitching and defensive play they are able to come up with.

One of the biggest problems Dark faces is coping with the rest of the clubs in the powerful East Division of the American League, which contains the top five finishers in the circuit last year with only the Washington Senators as patsies.

"We're in a tough division, no question about it," says Dark. "I like challenges anyhow."

Dark has to figure he has as reliable a set of starting pitchers as any club in the game: Luis Tiant, 21-9 with a 1.60 ERA last year; Sam McDowell, 16-8, Stan Williams, 13-10, and Sonny Siebert, 12-10 with a 2.98 ERA.

Similarly, catching is well provided for on the Indians. Joe Azcue, who hit .280 last year, and Duke Sims, who hit 11 homers, will divide the time behind the plate as they did last year.

In the infield, Tony Horton is set at first and Max Alvis at third, both hoping to recover from their worst years in their careers at the plate last year. Horton dipped from a 1967 mark of .284 to .249, while Alvis fell all the way to .223.

Zoilo Versalles, another victim of the misfortunes that befell hitters generally last year, now finds himself in a battle with Larry Brown for the regular shortstop spot. Versalles hit a wretched .196 last year with the Los Angeles Dodgers, while Brown hit .234 with the Indians, about normal for him.

Second base is another question mark as Dave Nelson and Vern Fuller may end up sharing the duty there unless one of them can provide some steady muscle at the plate.

In the outfield, only center fielder Jose Cardenal, who drove in 44 runs and hit .257, is safe. According to Dark, Lou Johnson, Lee Maye, Russ Snyder, Jimmie Hall, Rich Scheinblum and Russ Nagelson all have a chance at left and right.

The Indians bolstered their bullpen during the off-season by acquiring Jack Hamilton from California. Vicente Romo, who posted a 1.62 ERA last year, and Horacio Pina, who had a mark of 1.72 in 31 innings at the end of the season, figure to be the other stoppers.

Veteran Bobby Ussery has led the jockeys in riding winners five times at Hialeah Park.

Separate University Facilities Not Acceptable, Asserts HEW

WASHINGTON (AP) — The issue, said director Ruby Martin of the federal Office of Civil Rights, couldn't be clearer: "You don't build a Malcolm X dormitory. You integrate."

That, said Mrs. Martin, will be the gist of a memorandum the Department of Health, Education and Welfare will mail next week to 2,300 colleges and universities in the United States.

The memorandum could plunge the Nixon Administration into the midst of the violence-pocked controversy wracking scores of the nation's campuses over demands by militant young blacks for separate courses and faculties.

In effect, it sets limits on how far the demands of black pride can be carried into the realm of black separatism, but Mrs. Martin emphasized that no official could use the memorandum to "try to torpedo" black studies programs.

"We are not against black studies or other programs, except to the extent they exclude persons on the basis of race," said Solomon Arbeiter, coordinator for higher education in HEW's civil rights office.

"This is a ploy," said Nathan Hare, a Negro faculty member prominent in the turbulent protests at San Francisco State. "Now they're holding out assimilation to us as colonialists always do. Of course, they really don't give it to us."

The memorandum, written by Mrs. Martin—a Democrat-appointee who declined reappointment by President Nixon—warns college officials that they risk loss of federal funds if they sanction housing, social activities or academic courses that exclude any race.

Caught in the middle of the federal action is Antioch College, an experiment-oriented liberal arts center in Ohio founded by education pioneer Horace Mann.

Antioch faces the loss of $1.5 million in federal aid because no whites are enrolled in its black studies program, started last October. The school also has an all-black dormitory.

Negro students at Antioch said it would be "a cruel joke" if the 1964 Civil Rights Act were used to destroy their program, which began with the support of white students and Antioch's faculty.

Negro students have been demanding their own programs and facilities for the past two academic years, and have turned with increasing frequency to protest demonstrations when their demands were refused.

Nonetheless, said HEW, so far as it knows Antioch is the only college with a black studies program that excludes whites. The department said "two or three" universities had met the demands of Negro students for separate dormitories even though an HEW ruling last spring blocked Northwestern University from sanctioning such an all-black facility.

A Harvard faculty committee said last January in a report on African and Afro-American studies that only a few Negroes were urging "a more separatist structure, such as a dormitory solely for blacks," but that black students generally shared "a desire for some continuing identification with the black community."

Sympathy with that desire, plus the pressure of demonstrations, have produced a proliferation of black studies programs. Most major universities either have them or are in the process of creating them.

Vice Chancellor Kenneth Goode of the University of California at Berkeley, said there is no turning back.

"Black studies are inevitable. Period."

He also said that separatist aspects of some student demands have been "blown out of proportion."

"I'm quite sure," said Goode, "that all student demonstrators want to be taught by scholars and instructors who are men of competence. They realize that there are just not enough black scholars to staff such a department. They realize this as well as the administration."

Hare, a leader of the San Francisco State protests, was not particularly disturbed by the HEW action.

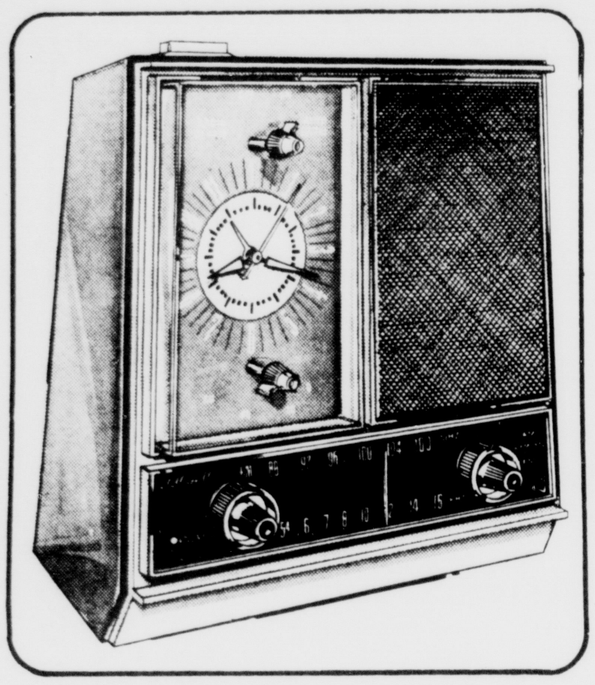

"Sometimes good things come in bad covers," he said. The result could be a "better strategy," one less tied to "absolutist principles."

He suggested one approach might be "to practice the policy of tokenism," and admit a few whites to black programs, so long as the programs were directed by blacks.

If a program is open to all students, "We don't care who runs it," said HEW's Arbeiter.

Likes Broadway Now

NEW YORK (AP) — In a Broadway season studded with super-actors, a newcomer is now earning cheers with some hi-fi mimicry.

He is Jay (for James) Garner, but don't mix him up with the hero of TV's "Maverick" and sundry cinemas. Each is 40, but Jay hails from Tennessee, the other from Oklahoma.

Since arriving at the Cort with the Theater Atlanta company in "Red, White and Maddox," a devastating political lampoon, Garner's availability for other assignments has been assiduously investigated by three major agencies.

"I'd like to stay; I make no bones about it," he expresses his change in attitude since last here 20 years ago as a six-month wonderkid who won a radio acting contest and $2,000.

"I feel that in the last three years I've grown more as a performer than in all the preceding period. That's the great thing about repertory across the country today—you get to play all kinds of roles."

In recognition of the rave reviews accorded Garner, producer Edward Padula elevated his name to star rank above the play title shortly after the production opened.

In the satire at the Cort, Garner does a vocal and visual impersonation of Georgia Gov. Lester Maddox with a mixture of deadly detail and sympathetic understanding.

"I met him, strangely as things turned out, on my first day at a radio reporting job," he says, "and I thought then, 'This is a strange little man who has great charm'."

Garner's first phonetic plagiarism took place only a year ago, when he enacted former President Johnson in Barbara Garson's lurid parody of classic drama and current events, "MacBird!"

"I've never had a voice lesson in my life," says Garner, "but voice people have all said that I have an excellent ear for picking up speech patterns and being able to reproduce them on a moment's notice."

The actor did a few modest acrobatics with his larynx while immersed from 1950 to 1966 in assorted assignments on radio and TV stations in Chattanooga and Atlanta.

"I guess the die was cast for me when I entered college," Garner says of his entertainment world career. School was the University of Tennessee at Knoxville where he helped support himself for two years by giving dance lessons.

At the university, Garner got involved in theatricals and took a year to tour with Robert Porterfield's Barter theater troup out of Abingdon, Va.

His biggest chance, in "MacBird!" resulted from a mid-rehearsal decision to replace the LBJ actor.

Nevada's Marriage Mills Are Target of Clergymen

CARSON CITY, Nev. (AP) — The president of the Nevada Council of Churches is backing a bill that would permit couples to marry by signing a piece of paper.

Don Winne, the council president, and other clergymen have testified before the Nevada Legislature in support of "paper" weddings. They say that doing away with a required wedding ceremony would put a quick end to a $60-million-a-year business that features "Marryin' Sams" and neon signs advertising 24-hour-a-day "wedding chapels" where credit cards can be used to pay for the ceremony, flowers and photographs.

Nonclergymen conducting weddings frequently make as much as $100,000 a year, testimony at legislative hearings shows.

There is no waiting period for a marriage license in Nevada an attraction for out-of-state couples.

Of 90,000 weddings in Nevada last year, 5,000 were performed in churches, claims George Flint, vice president of the State Wedding Chapel Association.

"I wonder if this (bill) could reflect jealousy on the part of the clergy at their inability to attract more of these weddings for themselves and their churches?" he asks.

"Pastors are not in the marrying business nor do they desire to be," six ministers said in a statement to a legislative committee.

Winne testified he supports the bill because "we want judges to do the work of judges and the clergy to do the work of the clergy."

Witnesses told of courts being interrupted so the judges, called "Marryin' Sams," could go out and perform marriages.

Girl Scouts Participate In Variety of Activities

Girl Scouts in the Sedalia area are celebrating their 57th birthday anniversary this week along with Girl Scouts throughout the nation. There are 878 girls as well as 171 adults involved in District 9 which includes Sedalia, LaMonte, Green Ridge, Lincoln, and Warsaw.

The Girl Scout program in this district has concentrated on service, skills, and outings. Troops have worked on a variety of service projects which included making tray favors for nursing homes, parties at the day nurseries, adopting families at Christmas; caroling, stuffing the Easter Seal envelopes and assisting with the open house at the new post office.

Through the help of consultants, Girl Scouts have learned many home-making skills — knitting, sewing and baking to name a few.

Whenever possible, Girl Scouts are out-of-doors. This year approximately 100 Cadettes and Seniors will participate in a 3-day Camporee at Sakajawea on April 11-13. On April 19, Brownies of Neighborhood 41 and LaMonte will meet for Brownie Wide Game (formerly called Fly-About). Brownies of Warsaw and Lincoln will meet April 26 and Neighborhood 42 and Green Ridge will get together April 26.

An Explorer Day for Sixth grade Juniors will be held May 3 at Knob Noster State Park. The first session of Day Camp will be offered June 16-19 and 23-26, with Mrs. Joe Comer, Lincoln, as director. Session 2 is set for Aug. 4-7 and 11-14, with Mrs. Wesley Harding, Green Ridge, as director.

Girl Scouts in District 9 (Pettis and Benton Counties) have sold more than 13,200 boxes of cookies this year to help with expenses within the troop, the Heart of Missouri Council and the state. Camp Sakajawea, 2 miles southwest of Sedalia is available for Sedalia Scouts and is owned by the Heart of Missouri Council. The Girl Scouts is a participating agency of the United Fund.

Young Orators Presented Awards

David Rayl, son of Mr. and Mrs. William C. Rayl, 2342 West Second, an eighth-grader at Sacred Heart Grade School, was the first-place winner in the Boys' Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Noon Optimist Club Tuesday evening at Flat Creek Inn.

Second-place winner was Douglas Cline, son of Mrs. Dorothy Cline, 1716 South Beacon, a freshman at Smith-Cotton High School.

John Mahoney, son of Mrs. B. D. Mahoney, 912 West Fifth, a freshman at Smith-Cotton, was the third-place winner.

There were nine contestants, all giving excellent talks on the subject "Respect for Law, Cornerstone of Citizenship."

Others competing were: Bill Raumaker, Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. W. L. Raumaker, 2515 Stephenson, Smith-Cotton; Steven Lamb, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Lamb, 1205 South Prospect; Jon Jackson, 315 North Quincy, son of Mr. and Mrs. Paul Jackson, Smith-Cotton; James Webb, 1124 South Ware, son of Mr. and Mrs. Howard Webb, Smith-Cotton; Rick Williams, son of Mrs. Norma Williams, Smithton, student at Smithton High School, and Larry McCutcheon, son of Mrs. N. D. McCutcheon, Smithton, student at Smithton High School.

Each boy was given a certificate award with the Rev. Walter P. Arnold, general chairman, making the presentations.

John Rostine, Marshall, Optimist lieutenant governor, presented the trophies.

Rostine said the first-place winner will compete with other first-place winners from 11 counties in District 1, in the contest to be held at 6:30 p.m. in the chapel of Missouri Valley College in Marshall on April 12.

Sister Rita was the coach for young Rayl. Mrs. Marilyn Van Horn was the coach for the second and third-place winners. Mrs. Hubert Finley and Mrs. Virginia Worshel, Smithton, were the other two coaches. All of the coaches were present, as were some of the parents of the contestants.

The winning speaker stressed that citizens must give respect to law, adding that law is a set of institutions which are important. There are two classes of people, he said, those with radical viewpoints who believe that the establishment should be destroyed and another start made, and those with the reactionary view who would enforce laws regardless of what these laws are.

America must formulate something in the middle of the radical and the reactionary that will continue to assure liberty and freedom for all, the speaker said.

Doug Cline, second-place winner, commented that no other country had done more than America for its people and that every citizen should enjoy his rights and respect this country. He spoke of the growing wave of lawlessness and advocated fighting this challenge not with words but with achievement toward peace. There must be respect for this country, he insisted.

John Mahoney noted that disrespect for law frenquently starts in the home where parents do not ask for obedience. It is in the community that people are not good citizens, he said, for good citizens do not riot, they obey laws, make laws and elect people to carry them out. In the nation good citizens serve their country proudly, he said.

Marvin Kueck conducted the contest, presenting the speakers by letters of the alphabet.

Don Broaddus introduced the judges: William Rabourn, timekeeper, Charles Spradling, the Rev. Harry Purviance and the Rev. Medford Speaker. Each was presented a gift.

The Rev. Charles Hendrickson, president, presided. Invocation was given by the Rev. W. P. Arnold.

Guests introduced were Mr. and Mrs. John Schultz, guests of Dr. K. L. Holdren; Beth Deason, guest of her father, Lee Deason; R. L. Settles, lieutenant governor, all of Sedalia; Lt. Governor John Ralstine and Ricky Randall, both of Marshall; Mrs. Hendrickson and Mrs. Arnold. Wives of Optimist members were guests of their husbands. There were 76 persons in attendance.

In Oratorical Contest

Seated are three top winners in the Boys Oratorical Contest sponsored by the Noon Optimist Club at Flat Creek Inn Tuesday night. The winner, center, is David Rayl. Left is Douglas Cline, second, and right is John Mahoney, third. Standing are the other participants, left to right: Jon Jackson, Larry McCrutchen, James Webb, Bill Raumaker, Jr., Steven Lamb and Rick Williams.

Viet Cong Girls Face a Harsh Life

SAIGON (AP) — A Viet Cong guerrilla girl is expected to share everything with her male counterpart except a bed.

If she does yield to temptation, and is caught, the penalty is harsh for both of them—anything from three to 10 years confinement in the bamboo cages that serve as jail cells in remote base areas.

This severe attitude to romance is being emphasized by the Viet Cong as more and more women and girls are brought into army ranks.

According to one captured top-level document, 4,000 female cadre are working with the Viet Cong. Many had "strikingly and fearlessly replaced the male sex in combat," the document added.

But one headquarters document complained: "The weakpoints of women are that they are credulous and cannot resist love."

Another said, "In many cases indoctrination of women of the revolutionary concept towards sex relations was not carefully considered. Guidance of the relationship between male and female was not good. This gave way to several cases of illicit love."

The Communist party hierarchy that runs the Viet Cong is motivated less by puritanism than by discipline.

"When you join the party you in effect marry it, and she is a very jealous mistress," an American analyst of the Viet Cong commented.

The Communists have been preaching the "three postponements" to unmarried cadre. The first is to postpone falling in love. Those who cannot resist are asked to postpone getting married. If they go ahead and marry, anyway, they are asked to postpone having babies.

The party insists that it is helping women, not hindering them, by controlling their love life. Because of their romantic inclinations, "women are often not considered for various jobs and are slow in making progress," an instruction from headquarters declared.

Recent evidence from documents, defectors, and from the battlefield itself indicates that the Viet Cong are using more and more women. In the past the front-line duties of women were in mortar platoons or as bearers. Now women are deployed in assault platoons and one defector said 200 women accompanied his battalion part way down the Ho Chi Minh Trail, their mission to repair roads blasted by American bombers.

Satellite Lead Goes to Russia

GENEVA (AP) — The Soviet Union took over the lead from the United States in the number of satellites launched during 1968, said the International Telecommunications Union. The Russians fired 74 satellites into space and the United States 56, according to ITU statistics. There were also three launchings by a combined West European team.

Integratior Only Token, Says Negro

LAWRENCE, Kan. (AP) — "We are tired of being tokenly integrated while our mothers and fathers are massively segregated." Hosea Williams, director of political action for the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, said Sunday night.

Williams spoke to about 450 persons in the final lecture in the Institutional Racism series sponsored by the University Christian Movement at the University of Kansas.

Williams said the few black students in universities today are symbols of token integration and white students "will have to straighten out the mess that their mothers and fathers made."

He said "the greatest thing going in this country is the student rebellion."

Williams said education in this country has become irrelevant and warned students in the audience that the "university doesn't educate—it trains."

He also said religion has ceased to be relevant and criticized the hypocrisy of ministers who praise the courage of Daniel in the lions' den but are afraid to face police dogs in the street.

Williams said that as he looked at the dead body of Dr. Martin Luther King Jr., he asked himself two questions. "Is this country worth saving?" and "Can it be saved?"

Williams said maybe Rap Brown is right. "Maybe this country has to be burned to the ground then built up again."

"The white man robbed the black man of his culture," he said. "He taught him that everything white is right and the most damnable thing ever created was the black man.

"It took me a long time to say I'm black and proud and black is beautiful."

Abortion Law Asked By Doctors

JEFFERSON CITY (AP) — Doctors from the universities of Missouri and Kansas testified before the Senate Criminal Jurisprudence Committee Monday night on a more liberalized abotion law.

Dr. Kermit E. Granz, chairman of the University of Kansas Medical Center's Department of Gyncecolohy and Obstetrics in Kansas City, Kan., said over 17,000 criminal abortions were performed in Missouri last year and more than 5,000 in Kansas.

Dr. David Hall, head of the University of Missouri's department of gynecology and obstetrics, also testified to the need for more liberal abortion laws.

Dr. Hall said if the same laws were applied throughout the United States he would even favor a federal law allowing abortions under certain conditions.

Missouri presently permits abortion to preserve the life of the mother. This bill, sponsored by Sen. Robert L. Prange, R-St. Louis, would also allow abortions if pregnancy resulted from rape or incest.

Dr. Granz said his figures on the estimated number of illegal abortions come from the State Health Departments and from doctors like himself who try to keep abreast of who is performing the illegal operations and to inform the police. He said four persons were arrested in Kansas City earlier this month for performing illegal abortions.

Pilots Will Honor Snoopy With Wings

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — They're giving Snoopy wings, finally.

The long-eared comic strip dog who dreams of aerial combat with German pilots of World War I will be guest of honor of the Navy's famed Blue Angels flying team Wednesday.

His artist, Charles Schulz of Sebastopol, Calif., plans to accept Snoopy's wings in a special ceremony of the San Mateo Navy League chapter, sponsored by the San Mateo Times. It's an event of the 75th anniversary of San Mateo.

In the air three old-time Stearman biplanes will soar in salute to the dreamy pooch of "Peanuts."

Chemist Appointed To Professorship

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — Dr. Linus Pauling, a chemistry professor at University of California at San Diego for two years, has accepted a Stanford University professorship, the Los Angeles Times said Monday.

Pauling, 68, is the only man to win two Nobel prizes. He won for chemistry in 1954 and in 1962 won the Nobel peace prize for his efforts to ban atmospheric testing of nuclear weapons.

Subject for Drooling

What are the lawmakers in Washington going to do about a bill to double the personal exemptions on income tax? The tax payer and each of his dependents is now allowed only $600 each. This meager exemption has been in effect for 19 years without change although the cost of living has skyrocketed and the law makers have favored themselves not only in Congress but in the Missouri Legislature with pay increases boosted like a rocket into outer space.

Currently a proposal to double the personal exemptions to $1,200 is getting some public attention, particularly from the nation's independent business proprietors. A poll taken by the National Federation of Independent Business concerning a bill submitted by Congressman Thomas Meskill of Connecticut, reveals that 82 per cent favors this bill, 17 per cent opposed and one per cent undecided.

Business owners responding in Missouri concur with 79 per cent supporting the bill, 19 per cent objecting, and two per cent with no firm opinion.

A majority apparently put a high priority on this item when it comes to tax reform although the Treasury Department has failed to urge it.

"Of all the inequities in the income tax law," Congressman Meskill asserts, "the $600 limit on personal exemptions is one of the most flagrant."

The National Federation reminds us that in addition to the cost of living increases since 1950 and the fact that $3,000 is now considered poverty income, the government pays $2,200 in welfare each year for support of a Cuban refugee child attending school. But taxpayers still get only a $600 tax-free allowance for a child!

Then, listen to this: A family of four is entitled to $2,400 in exemptions, but if the family income has risen from $4,000 to $8,000, its taxable income (before deductions) has risen from $1,600 to $5,600 and the latter income is taxed at a higher rate.

While doubling the exemption value would cut government revenue, most of the reduction would be tax relief for middle and low income families. A family of four with a gross income of $8,000 this year would pay $389 in tax (assuming the standard deduction and 10 per cent sur tax) instead of the $849 it will owe under the present law. Such relief, which many businessmen feel is long due, might provide an economic spending stimulus which would increase tax collection from other sources.

Very interesting. However, that's about as far as it will get — just provocative in print. But taxpayers can drool for a moment, can't they?

Washington Merry-Go-Round

Red Tape Slows Peace Momentum

By JACK ANDERSON

WASHINGTON — Senior career diplomats who have talked with President Nixon have found him most knowledgeable regarding problems of the communist world, especially Soviet Russia.

He is convinced that the future peace of the world lies in cooperation between the two great nuclear powers, the U.S.A. and U.S.S.R. and unlike President Kennedy, who ignored this advice, he is anxious to get talks started with the Russians fairly soon. His general view seems to coincide with that of President Johnson who, within a month of taking office, started a policy of U.S.A.-U.S.S.R. cooperation.

Nixon asks the right questions of career advisors and seems to know where he is going. However, he has revived the old National Security Council and put it under General Andrew J. Goodpaster who is constantly getting reports from so-called experts on this or that alternative in foreign policy. Usually the reports are prepared by lower echelon men and are not read by those at the top.

This makes for delay and red tape at a time when speed is essential, especially when fighting is escalating and casualties are mounting in Viet Nam.

Dr. Henry Kissinger, Nixon's national security advisor, is described as brilliant by Democratic holdovers from the Johnson administration. They have nothing but praise for him. However he seems to be bogged down in paper work.

Incidentally it was a little group of experts in the Johnson administration who helped write Kissinger's article in the magazine "Foreign Affairs" last fall in which he went on record in favor of a compromised peace in Viet Nam. It helped remove the hawkish label from President Nixon. These experts are still in government and are working with Kissinger.

—Missouri Politicians?—

All of this red tape plus Nixon's super-caution have now lost for him the peace momentum built up by Secretary of Defense Clark Clifford during the closing months of the Johnson administration.

It is now well recognized that it was Clifford, the slow-talking Missouri lawyer and semi-politician, who really reversed the Johnson policy of listening to the military and escalating the war. Clifford, because of his political background and long experience playing poker with Harry Truman and other Southern Democrats, had the knack of winning the confidence, not only of President Johnson, but members of the Senate House Armed Services Committees.

McNamara had started off burying the military thesis that the war in Viet Nam could be won, then gradually came around to the realization that this was a revolutionary war which could not be won by conventional methods. When he clashed with Johnson over this, Johnson eased him out.

In effect he was fired.

It took Clifford less than two weeks after he succeeded McNamara to realize McNamara was right.

Clifford too had his clashes with President Johnson but the President could not afford to fire him. He had been appointed too recently. Besides, they were old friends, and despite some friction, Clifford convinced Johnson that bombing should be stopped.

—Brain-Washing Laird—

The problem now is to see whether the third Secretary of Defense within the period of a year, Melvin Laird, needs more precious time to get educated — time during which casualties are mounting and the total of American young men killed is now almost equal to the 33,630 killed in the bloody Korean War.

Secretary Laird is now in Saigon getting "educated." Secretary of HUD, George Romney, the only man who ever told the truth about a Saigon education correctly called it "brainwashing." Laird has made a good impression on career government officials and Democratic holdovers. He is bright, hard-boiled, not easily fooled, but inclined to be a hawk.

President Nixon has held up private talks with the North Vietnamese which had been agreed to two months ago waiting, among other things, for Secretary Laird to review the situation in South Viet Nam and get brainwashed. Apparently the solution Nixon said he had for Viet Nam during the election campaign but did not want to announce then, has not materialized.

Meanwhile the Nixon administration has got itself out on the escalation limb by talking tough. It almost has to follow up its tough words about retaliation for the bombing of Saigon by carrying out its threat.

This will not only escalate the war even further, but could completely undo the peace progress so far made in Paris.

What the public generally doesn't realize is that Ambassador Henry Cabot Lodge had publicly stated that the best way to accomplish results at Paris is through private talks. Yet he has received no green light from Washington to proceed with such talks.

Furthermore, Ambassador Averill Harriman, former senior negotiator at Paris has publicly stated that the recent Viet Cong bombing of Saigon is "essentially a response to our actions rather than a deliberate, reckless attempt to dictate the peace terms or torpedo the talks." Harriman referred to General Creighton Abrams' intensive B-52 bombing of military positions in South Viet Nam and his general military offensive.

This offensive has been called getting into position "to negotiate from strength." Ambassador Harriman has indicated the bombing of Saigon means the North Vietnamese are also getting into a position "to negotiate from strength."

Meanwhile 200 American lives are lost every week.

Taxpayers Ask IRS

Q — I support my grandson. Can I claim him as a dependent even though he did not live with me?

A — Generally, you can if you provided more than one-half of the child's support, and the other dependency tests are met.

The dependency requirements are explained in the 1040 and 1040A tax instructions.

Q — Are scholarships taxable?

A — Scholarships and fellowship grants are tax free within certain limitations. For more details, send a post card to your District Director and ask for Publication 507, "Tax Information on Scholarships and Fellowships."

General tax information for students is contained in Publication 532, "Tax Information for Students and Parents." Both are free.

Religion Knows No Boundaries

By DAVID POLING

And there is no manual for the secular.

Sometimes this is explained to us in the vision of the artist: his translations of reality give expression to our stumbling, awkward definitions. It was what Richard Niebuhr of Yale Divinity School must have meant when he said that the Christian had to learn to improvise in his ethical encounters. The Kingdom of Love does not always yield to lists of mimeographed options.

I believe that artist Charles Schorre touched on this when he described the meaning of religious experience:

The movies Patch of Blue and Zorba the Greek were religious experiences for me; I have also had them in churches, in the kitchen washing dishes with my wife, with my children in the backyard, with persons in strange places, with a life class in a university.

Perhaps he should have stopped here, and not tempted those who are the border guards of heresy by saying:

Are we saved? It is up to each of us to live up to our salvation with all we have in us, to be with all our being If we don't we are slobs, slopping through life, no matter how clever, beautiful, rich, lucky, talented, charitable or religious.

Those who pull back in alarm — later to become shock, and then its stepsister, criticism — have announced that those who plunge so cleverly into the world will only receive its stain and not find the Savior. Their argument contends that some social gains are won at the loss of spiritual development and strength of soul. Activity on the surface they claim, hides a shallow spirit, an undisciplined vulgarity.

I cannot speak for others, but part of my own adventure in the world has confirmed the presence of God as well as His enemies. The movement of the Holy Spirit, according to scripture, is a leading into the spirit of wisdom and might, the spirit of understanding and love, the spirit of the fear of the Lord.

If this truly be God's world, then He shall not be confined to the traditions of our collective experience or the dictates of 19th-century piety. He is the One who chooses to reveal Himself to men. If this be true, then the secular saint will not be tormented by the hiddenness of God, but inspired by His presence.

Did the Psalmist anticipate our times in his moment when he cried:

If I ascend to heaven, thou art there!
If I make my bed in Sheol, thou art there!
If I take the wings of the morning and dwell in the uttermost parts of the sea, even there thy hand shall lead me, and thy right hand shall hold me.
If I say, "Let only darkness cover me, and the light about me by night," even the darkness is not dark to thee, the night is bright as the day, for darkness is as the light with thee.

Indeed, the God and Father of Sarah and Abraham is also the One over Cape Kennedy and Waikiki.

Saigon's Rural Viet Gains Stir New Red Offensive

By RAY CROMLEY
NEA Washington Correspondent

WASHINGTON — Ho Chi Minh's current winter-spring offensive has a direct relationship to Saigon's political-religious-economic hamlet organization drive of the past 12 months.

If Red China's guerrilla theories are being followed, the current probing attacks and the heavier battles certain to follow if Ho's men discover soft spots, seem aimed at sucking major U.S. and South Vietnam defense forces into tight defensive rings to defend cities, towns and military installations.

This tactic is calculated to leave the Viet Cong and North Vietnamese invader forces a free hand in the South Vietnamese countryside where Mao Tse-tung believes the war will be won in the long run.

The Communist tacticians are known to be worried over the recent successes of political, economic and religious non-Red organizations in a considerable number of rural hamlets.

Hanoi is especially concerned over approximately 1,000 marginal or contested hamlets in which government aid and governmental and private organizational efforts have achieved some degree of success.

The success has not been great, perhaps, but enough to cause the Communist leaders to fret over the possibility they were losing their touch.

For those were the hamlets held on and off again by government and Communist troops, sometimes government by day and Communist by night, sometimes government for some weeks, then Communist for some weeks. They were, in essence, the fighting edge of the war for control of the people — as distinct from the war of the major army units (though, of course, not entirely unconnected).

The North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are themselves now in the midst of a mammoth organizational drive. They've put an estimated 35,000 to 40,000 cadres in the field, six to seven times the number of six years ago.

This drive is running into increasing opposition from South Vietnamese regional militia, from government pacification units, from local non-Communist farm and fishing co-operatives, from college and high school student groups. Though the success of these non-Communist groups is spotty, their cumulative effect is worrisome to the Viet Cong and the North Vietnamese.

If Ho is to win the war, the government teams must once again be driven out of the countryside, the growing non-Red organizations broken up and the government regional forces put down and the people either frightened or made to believe a Hanoi-Viet Cong victory is inevit.

Ho's tie-up of U.S. and South Vietnamese forces in cities, towns and military bases need not be months long. In some areas the Reds could achieve their purpose in a few days. In others it might take several weeks.

It will be recalled that in the Tet offensive in 1968, pacification teams withdrew over wide areas. Their efforts were set back temporarily, but significantly for a considerable period of time.

According to Mao theory, if these setbacks occur often enough in the rural areas, the people, the Saigon government and the United States will all become discouraged and the war will be won.

Elimination Is Key to Game

Opening lead—♠ K

Try not to look at the East and West hands before you plan your play at four hearts. If you do, you will see why Dorothy Hayden in her new book, "Winning Declarer Play," gave the hand the title, "Cherchez la Femme."

You have no problem at the start since West cashes the ace and king of spades and continues. You ruff the third spade and draw trumps. It takes just two leads to do this since both opponents follow.

Then you see that you can make five odd by successful finesses in both clubs and diamonds. You have only a one-way finesse in clubs, and a two-way finesse in diamonds. You will have to be lucky to make the overtrick, and very unlucky to go down.

If you do go down you won't be the unlucky one. It will be your partner.

The reason is that this hand is a sure thing. You simply play out the ace, king and jack of clubs. It won't matter which opponent takes the queen, or what is led back.

If a diamond is led back the queen is a dead card. If any other suit is led back you simply ruff in one hand and discard a diamond from the other.

This old type hand has been included in every book of play from Foster and Work through this one. It has also appeared in the Jacoby and every other bridge problem.

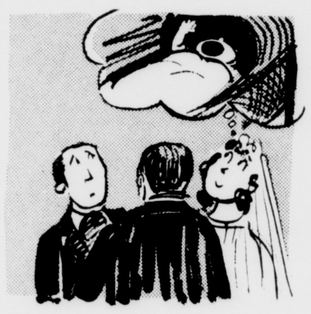

It is called an elimination play because you eliminate all cards in certain suits before giving up the lead. In this case your opponents eliminated spades and you eliminated clubs.

You also eliminated all losing chances when you did this.

THE FAMILY LAWYER

Refusal to Have Children

During his romance with Myrtle, Jack often spoke tenderly of the children they would have once they were married. But after the wedding, he changed his tune. In fact, he insisted on the use of birth control measures.

Finally Jack confessed that he had never intended to have children in the first place. Myrtle promptly sued for an annulment on grounds of fraud, and the court awarded her a decree.

Annulment of a marriage is not granted lightly. But it is granted, as a rule, if one of the parties was deceived during the courtship about something "essential" to the marital relationship. And having children is considered essential—that is, part of the very foundation of the marriage.

Suppose the subject of having children had simply never been discussed before the wedding. Could the wife who wants children still complain that she had been deceived, even though her husband had never made her any promises?

Yes, because that kind of commitment is implied in the marriage contract. As one judge put it:

"Affianced parties do not generally exact from each other a promise that they shall have offspring. Procreation, though not discussed, is taken for granted."

On the other hand, complaints of being deceived are relatively easy to fake, as an easy way out of matrimony. For that reason, the court may refuse an annulment if the complaining spouse's story is not convincing.

In one case, a woman sued for an annulment after 12 years of childless marriage. After all this time, she said, her husband had finally admitted he had deceived her from the very beginning and had never meant to have a family.

But the court decided that the woman herself could not have been any too eager for children. Denying an annulment, the judge said:

"She allowed 12 years of their life to slip by without insisting on her right to a family. I do not think she can be heard to complain at this late day."

BERRY'S WORLD

"My TAXABLE income runs into six figures, too— ALL ZEROS!"

A Soldier's View

SP-4 STEPHEN A. LANTIS—U.S. 565946635, HHC 307th CBT Aun. Bn. APO S.F. 96215 (son of Robert A. Lantis, 2504 Anderson, Sedalia) — I am now serving my time in the opposite of heaven, Vietnam. I have a few opinions to express. If these could be printed, maybe some people will start thinking about what's happening. My message follows:

First, here you are, serving, fighting in Vietnam. That's bad enough by itself. But then you read your letters from home. You love letters from your wife, newsy letters from others. You first read the letters from your wife. They make you so happy that you're alive. You are really feeling good, although so sad that you are away from her and your baby. Then, you turn to your newsy letter from the folks. It always starts off good. You notice a piece of paper falling from inside the letter, thinking it must be cartoons.

You read, read it again and then you can't believe it. It contains people's complaints about losing garbage can lids, not having a tree picked up that's laying across the yard from their car.

Then word comes down that a mortar attack is imminent. So you try to lay down and get some sleep. Early in the morning the siren goes off. You're under your bed, praying that they don't hit your barracks. Then they call out the forces and you can face "Charlies" nice fire. Praying all the time. The next morning if you're still alive you can see how many V.C. were killed, torn apart. Once is enough. Then the letter comes to mind and your efforts are wasted.

I only wish that I could sit back and worry about losing a garbage can lid, not having the trash picked up. Also there's the hippies that think they have it so bad. The schools are so unfair to them.

You wonder while you're over here: Is there really anyone trying to get you home; or are you sent over here to do something that nobody really cares about. Will this war ever end? Does the person reading this really CARE if I and everybody else over here ever get back to wife and child, and their families? I do care and I'll be back. I only hope that maybe my son won't have to be over here — doing and living as I am.

So if you read this and don't really care, that's allright because I'm not fighting for you anyway. The rest of you, yes, we'll make it. There's an end in the future. Let's just keep fighting for it, until it ends and I and everybody else can come back, HOME.

These are really feelings that are with me. I can't call it opinions, or a heart-breaking sad story. These are only feelings that are within me.

Thank you very much for your time and trouble in printing this. And I'll be home there's no doubt in my mind about that.

This Is What's in a Name

We call it the "Hong Kong flu." Russians would call it "grippe," from their word for hoarseness; the Italians, "flu," an abbreviation of "influenza," meaning an influence, a power. The French know it as "le tac"—a blow on the head.

But as most descriptive of the kind of mass, crash infection we've experienced this year, Quinto Lingo magazine suggests the German name: "blitz-katarrh."

Use of Drugs Grows Among the Young

EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the first in a series of articles written by a prize-winning reporter to inform anxious parents about the drug and narcotics situation and suggest what they can do to guard their own children against its hazards.

BY ALTON BLAKESLEE
AP Science Writer

The use — and abuse — of drugs that affect human minds is spreading across the country like smog.

Young Americans by the hundreds of thousands, perhaps by the million, are tasting, experimenting or going still further with marijuana, with LSD, with the uppies and downies of pep pills and sedatives, with Speed, and even in some cases with heroin.

By the millions, parents are increasingly puzzled, worried, or even downright panicky. Most disturbing to them, marijuana or "pot" especially is becoming popular among junior high and high school students.

"My seven-year-old daughter can spell marijuana; I never heard of it until I was in college," says one 37-year-old father.

At high schools and colleges, arrests for possession of marijuana and other drugs are increasing. Simple possession of marijuana is a felony punishable by jail terms of two to 10 years or more.

Drug use is unquestionably becoming a way of life for some young people — and for an untold number of adults also.

Eight Vital Questions

This series of stories, based on interviews with dozens of authorities across the country, deals with questions such as these that confront parents and young people as well:

What can or should parents do to steer their children away from using mind-affecting drugs?

How much of the complete story about various drugs do young people and children know?

How can you tell if someone is smoking marijuana, or taking LSD or other drugs?

Why did the great turn-on with drugs come along now?

What benefits do drug users say they find? What harms may various drugs cause?

Just what are all these drugs, new and old?

What should parents do if teen-agers or college students become dependent on drugs?

What is the argument all about over legalization of marijuana, or reducing the penalties for possessing it?

There are of course no simple, pat answers to these and other questions.

What Parents Can Do

But knowledgeable authorities in medicine, psychiatry, education, drug research, and law enforcement do offer numerous guidelines, and advice on specific things you can do.

These are spelled out in detail in later stories in this series.

For a majority of young people, observers remark, the encounter with mind-affecting drugs appears as a flirtation, a one time or once-in-a-while event, with users sure they can take it or leave it.

But some authorities say such experimentation can amount to drug roulette — that some young people particularly susceptible to various drugs, can become dependent, and get hurt, badly hurt, from what they intended as a rather innocent adventure.

The "drug scene" is part of a larger one. For the truth is that American society is heavily a pill society. Its people for years have been swallowing billions of pills and capsules, including tranquilizers.

American society tolerates alcohol and nicotine, both of which technically are drugs, and millions of people abuse both of them. It has long had a corps of addicts hooked on heroin or opium, but fewer now than 30 or 40 years ago.

Pills for Everybody

Many among a huge variety of drugs are taken legitimately, prescribed for medical benefits. But there is also a great black market among some potent drugs, and illegal manufacture or importation.

Each year, says the Food and Drug Administration, billions of sedative and pep pills are diverted to illegal use and ultimate misuse. That means enough pills or tablets per person per year to "keep everyone in the United States awake and jumping for a week, and enough barbiturates to keep them in a stupor for a week."

No one knows what the over-use of potent drugs of many kinds is doing to that priceless possession, the human brain, how much it is constituting a brain drain of intelligence and skills.

The newer element in the nation's drug problem is the rather sudden spread of drugs that induce fantasies or hallucinations, or that "expand the mind."

This drug problem is here. It is now. It is big. It is apparently growing bigger.

And it has set loose a storm of emotion that confuses the issues, and that blocks effective answers.

Few Guidelines

Part of the problem is "a tyranny of opinion, attitude and belief in the absence of knowledge," says Dr. Helen H. Nowlis, University of Rochester psychologist and director of the drug education project of the National Association of Student Personnel Administrators.

The real extent of drug use among young people is not known, although estimates are given in the next article.

Many parents are baffled or alarmed because the drug scene is something totally outside any of their own personal experience. Many cannot help wondering whether their children will remain immune to the appeal of present drugs, or to a raft of new drugs which experts predict will inevitably come along.

Many parents are far more alarmed, some experts say, than they really need be.

But practically all agree that parents are not likely to get very far unless they know the real facts about different drugs. Only with knowledge can they give sound counsel.

Youngsters and students generally know a good deal more than parents about mind-influencing drugs. But they may also tend to believe what they choose on a controversial subject. And they have tended to learn about drugs from their own companions — not all of them well or fully informed.

Parents are wrong, for example, if they argue that marijuana is a "narcotic" or that it is physically addictive. The reasons why it is not, and why parents could honestly have been misled into thinking it is, are explained later.

Straight Answers Needed

The point that authorities make here is that parents get into trouble if they DO insist marijuana is a narcotic, or if they lump all drugs together as being equally bad.

"Once the youngster can prove the parent is wrong about a big point, he very likely takes the position — 'Now I can't believe anything you say at all,'" says one psychiatrist.

"Any drug education which is not scrupulously honest will fail with the kids," a psychologist adds. "Once you exaggerate, you lose them."

Chase Away the Blues With a Money Party

(NEA) — Misery loves company and there is no better way to chase the blues than with a good party. To celebrate (?) receipt of postholiday bills and blithely face tax time, whip up some costumes, scatter a bunch of the green stuff (play money) around and have an evening of fun.

Young couple fights the postholiday bill and income tax glums with a money party. Costumes, money tree and pot of gold wall decoration are made of crepe paper and inexpensive household items.

All decorations can be of crepe paper and inexpensive household items.

Setting the theme is a money topiary tree. Once the technique of making the tree is mastered, its variations serve to key other holiday or club events.

Start the tree by covering a one-half-inch round, 14-inch long dowel or stick with a strip of brown crepe paper. Fill a small flower pot sprayed gold with clay or styrofoam and insert dowel into this. Top the dowel with a 6-inch styrofoam ball.

Now cut a package of holiday green crepe paper in half across the fold and cut off 20-inch long strips and gather each of these in the middle. Tie them tightly th an 8-inch piece of wire. Poke each into the styrofoam ball, inserting the wire ends completely. Continue doing this until you have a full, solid tree.

Bows of play money are pasted to the tree and you may add gold coins to the branches and around the trunk.

Easy-to-make costumes for the host and hostess continue the money mood. How about a wrap-around apron and a money vest for an inventive couple?

Make the apron by unfolding two packages of holiday green crepe paper and stitch the paper together the long way. This comes to a 10-foot length. Make a one-inch casing at the top for a green rope or extra heavy green yarn to run through. Gather this to form the top which should be your waist measurement plus 10 inches. This allows for the overlap. Cut a sarong shape in front on the overlap and staple pleated play money to the front along the edge. You can paste on green yarn to cover the staples. Gold coins at the ends of the waist rope complete the costume.

The lucky chap talked into dressing up as a nonnegotiable money vest to wear. To make this cut a 24-inch piece of holiday green crepe paper off the package. Fold this piece in half to get a 12 x 20-inch chape. Cut a half vest shape from this using a real vest for a pattern if necessary. Attach green yarn to the shoulders and at the waist by stitching on a sewing machine or stapling. Allow enough yarn to tie vest in back of the neck and around the waist. Trim the vest with gold candy coins pasted on for buttons. You may stitch or paste on pockets.

A money or acquisition game or two may help bolster the winners' egos and add to the frivolity.

Post of City Assessor Involves Few Duties

He doesn't have an office in City Hall, he has little to do and draws a paltry salary for his trouble, but Sedalia's position of city assessor is here to stay — unless the State Legislature does something about it.

Sedalia's assessor has two duties to perform: sit on the Pettis County Board of Equalization which meets in mid-year, then on the Appeals Board later on, and sign the city tax books. The tax books are prepared by the county assessor's office along with the remainder of the tax books for the county on a fee basis.

The city assessor is paid $25 per month, which is hardly enough to get excited about.

The question came up concerning the status of the office of city assessor in plans being made for a proposed charter form of government. Neil Chapman, chairman of the Charter Commission, said, "Any new form of government cannot regulate or change any phase of city government under the control of the state. The assessor's office is set up by the Legislature and as far as we on the commission are concerned, we cannot enter into the picture."

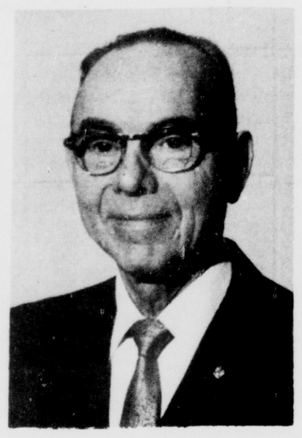

Walter Jesse

Even though the office of assessor is only an "honorary" position, both the Democratic and Republican parties have entered candidates for the office in the April 1, city election.

Walter Jesse, 1612 East Fourth, is the candidate for the office on the Democratic ticket, and Carl A. Wehrli, 1505 South Barrett, is the Republican candidate.

The winner of the election will take office immediately to fill out the unexpired term of John Blue, who died last year.

Carl Wehrli

The term ends Sept. 1, 1970. John Collins is serving as assessor until the election.
